Unquenchable pride makes us proud to be

Red Devils on Parade

Crash! Boom! Here comes the parade — The Richmond High School Red Devils Parade. We started our march September 7, 1966—603 seniors, 706 juniors, and 830 sophomores in a long parade through the corridors into the classrooms, laboring over exams, struggling for as long as five hours nightly on homework, working an average of 24 hours weekly at after-school jobs, participating in community-service projects, relishing the opportunities for teen-age companionship, and above all just trying to find time for all our numerous activities.

Community leaders, our parents, our instructors, and our fellow classmates each exercised an influence in molding our personalities. They gave us that word of encouragement or that extra push that was needed to make us strive for the best in all that we did.

Sometimes our spirits were high and at times they were a bit dampened—but our unquenchable pride made us proud RED DEVILS ON PARADE.

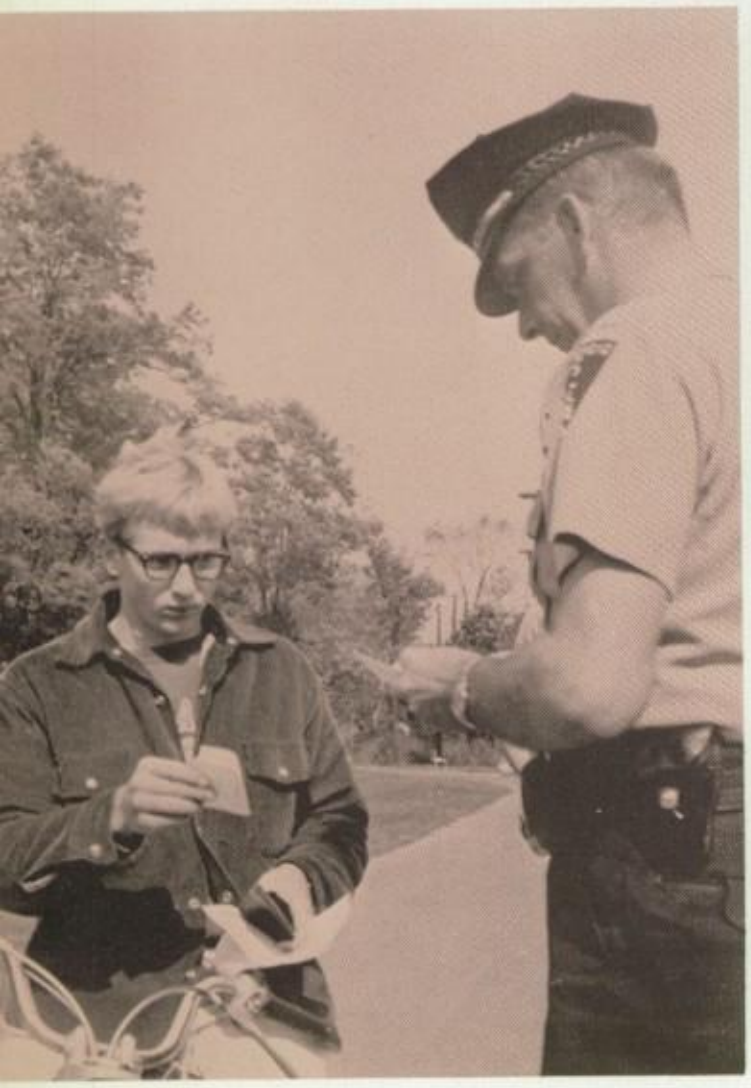
RHS students plunge eagerly into

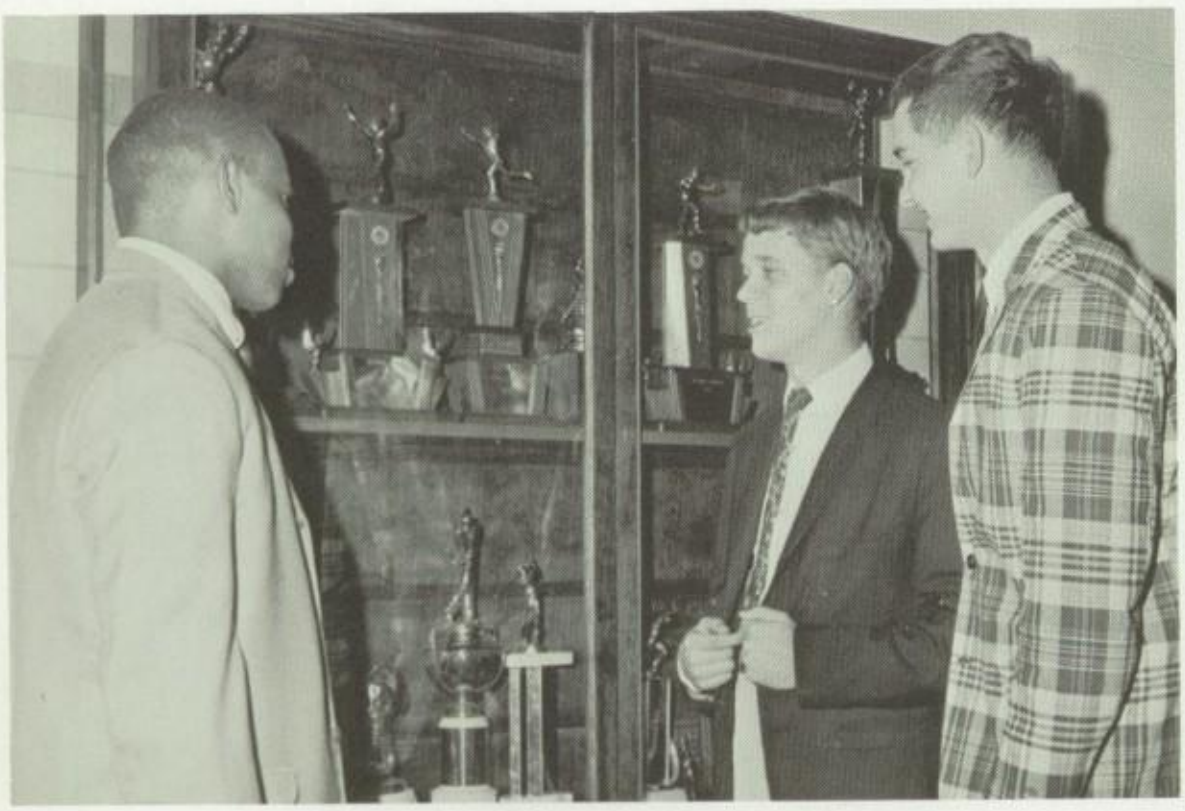


Judy Roark, Wanda Washburn, Cathy Tiemann put their trays on the conveyor belt.

Steve Helmich presents papers for motorbike registration to Capt. Walter Stout.

Mr. Donald Mays, activities director, reads the morning announcements.

Bob Ward, Steve Purcell, and Mike LaFuze admire trophies won by RHS athletes.



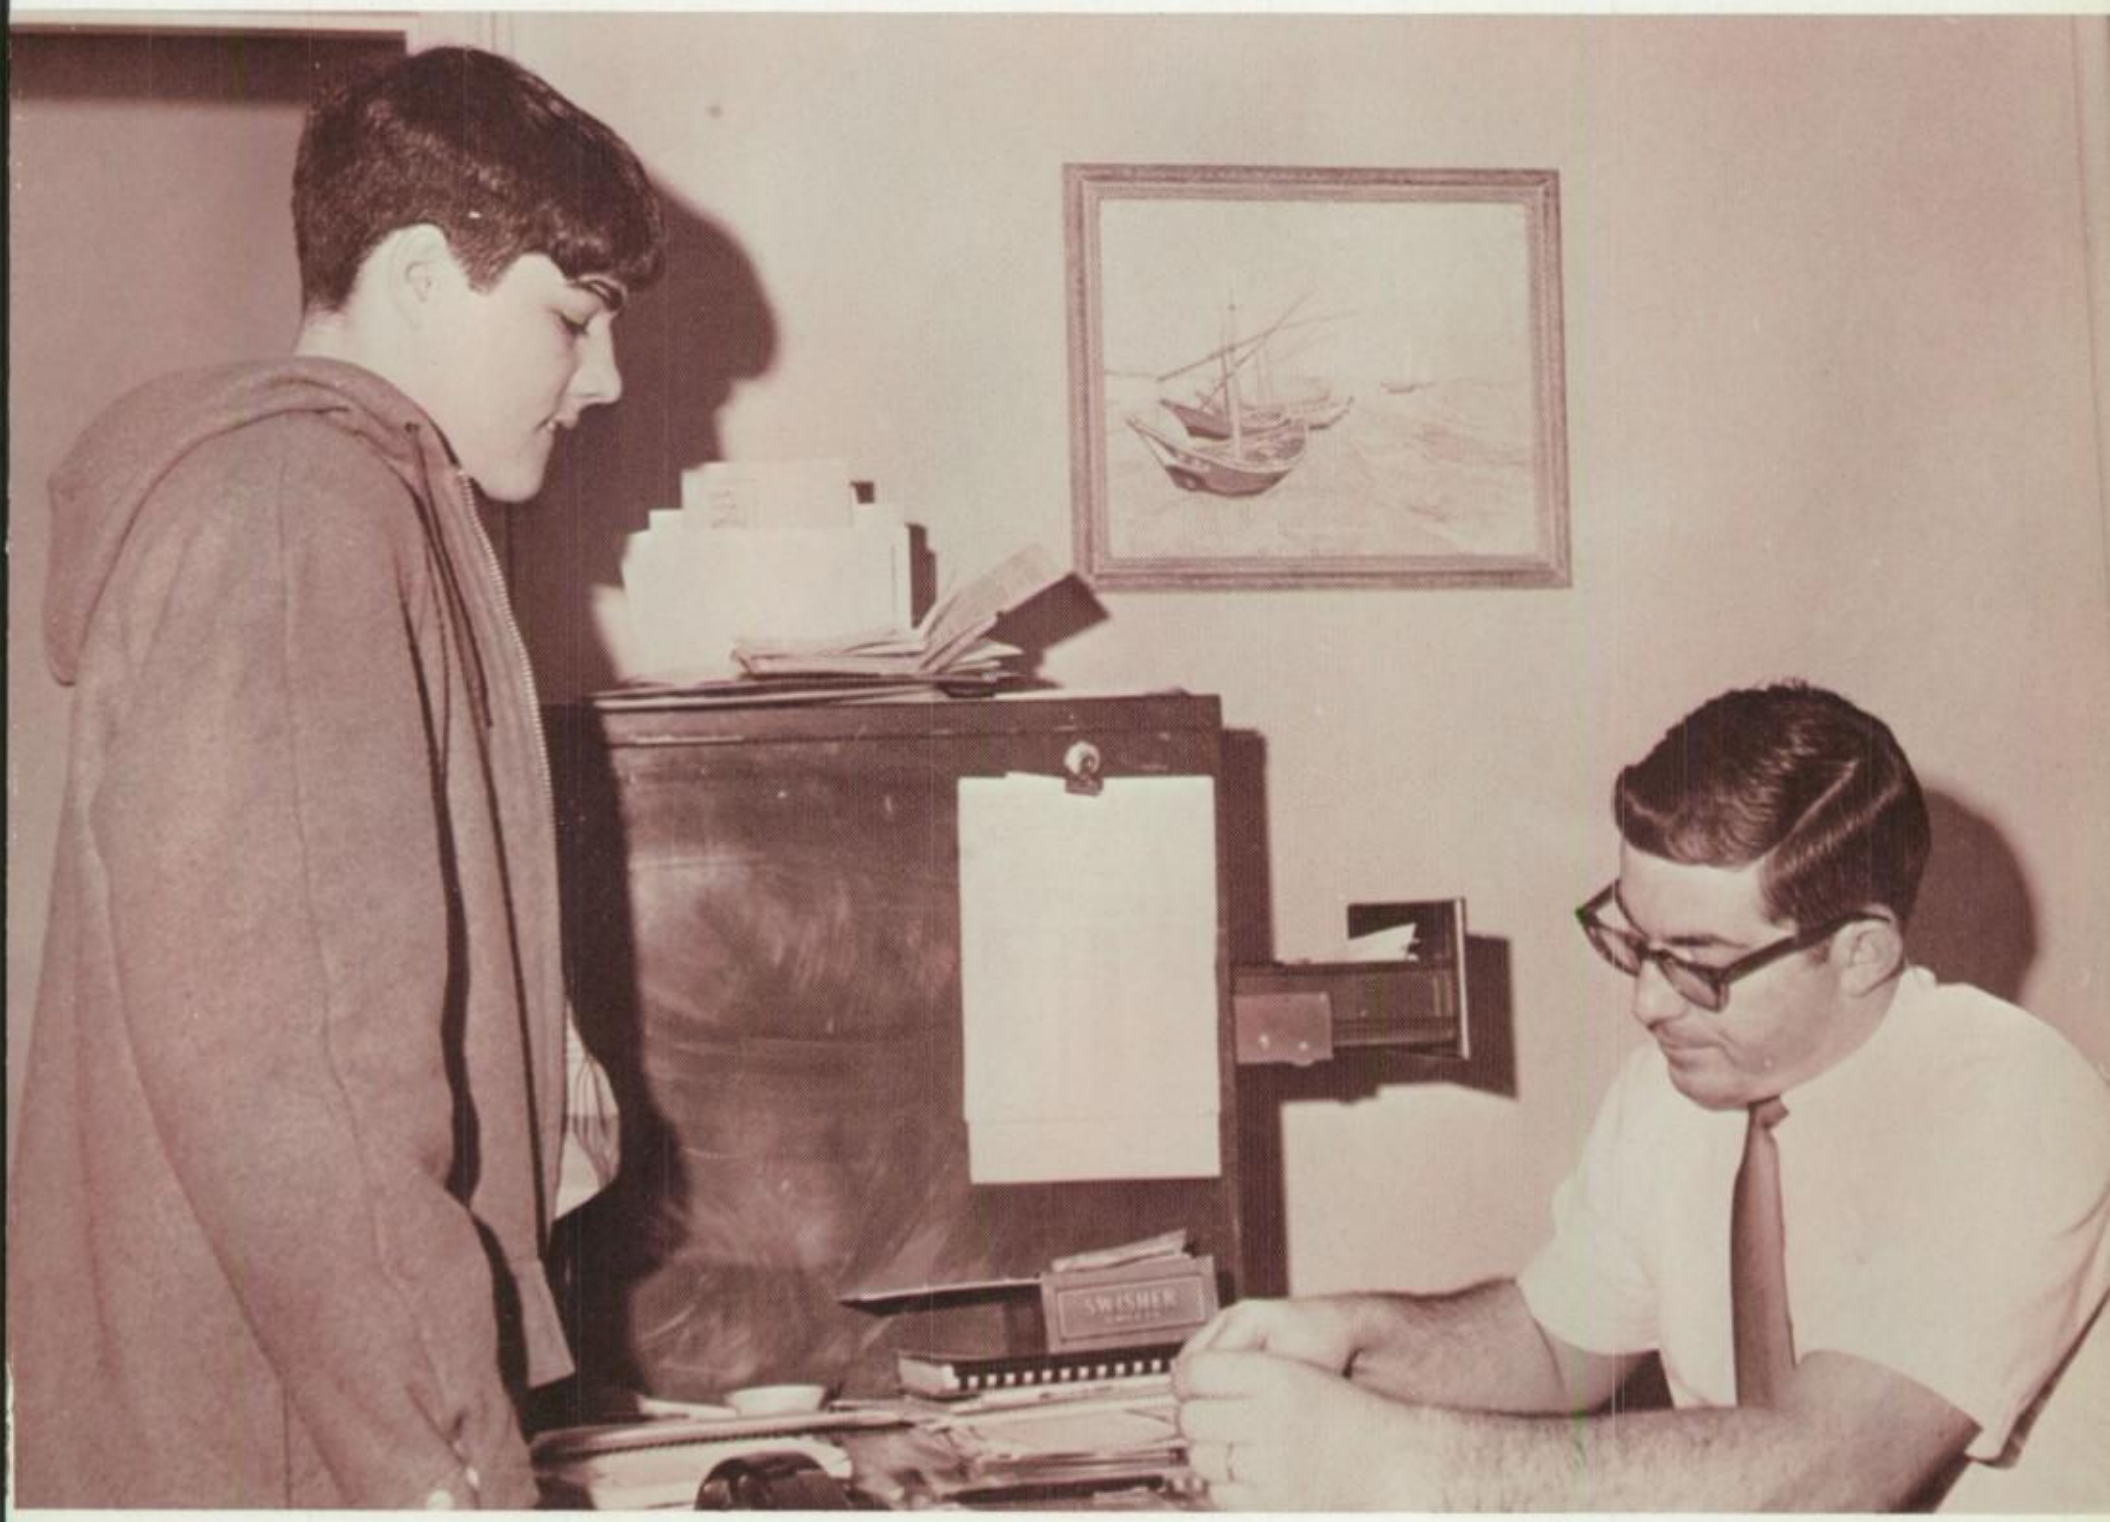
all aspects of school life

Lynn Dillon and Carol Elstro decide to give their locker a "spring cleaning."

Schedule changes pose problems for students and administrators. Mike Amburgey waits as Mr. Wagner tries to revise his schedule.

Richmond High School students thrived on days crammed full of classes, between-class chats, athletic events, club activities, dances, assemblies, and friendships. In short, RHS students plunged eagerly into all aspects of school life—athletics, social life, and study added excitement to the day's routine.

Versions of school life at RHS during 1967 were made up of many things . . . trying to arrive on time for that first hour class . . . rushing to Honors Hall to catch up on the latest news . . . spending the majority of the day in classes absorbing ideas and theories and solving problems . . . making plans for a dance or that week-end fling . . . and in between times, just trying to enjoy being a high school student.

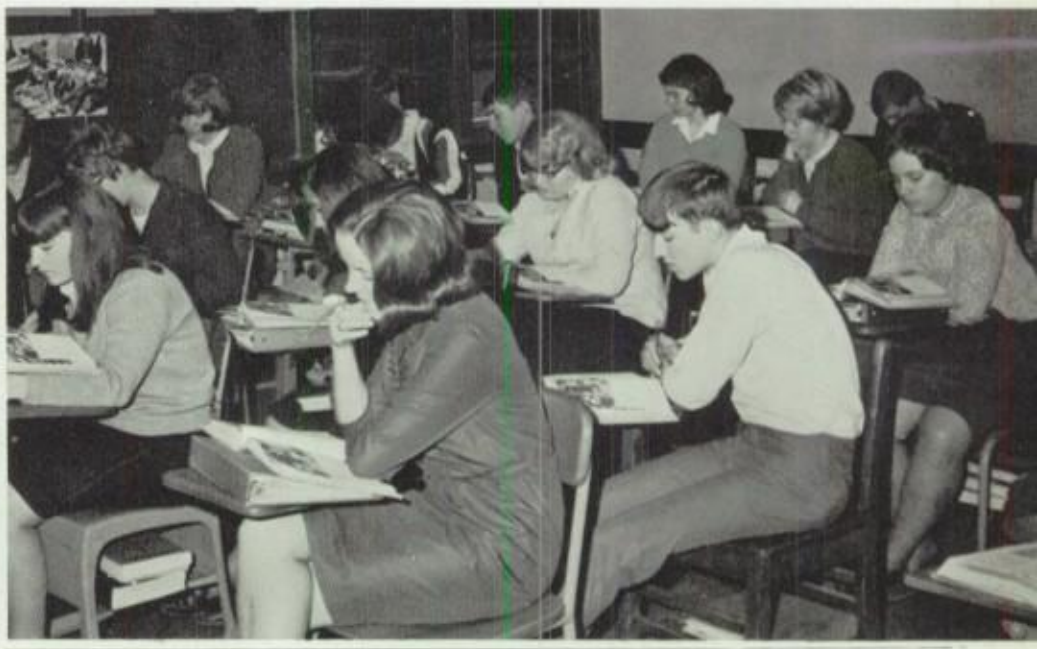


Mr. Ivan Wagner and Mr. Dave Runyon check the results as the computer turns out report cards for the student body in 61 minutes.

Computerized schedules accent

Joyce Hannah, on the trampoline, practices "seat to feet," one of the stunts studied by girl gymnasts.

Come Sunday night and wet hair, Janet Hackman is determined to finish typing her English composition.



Mrs. Ellen Kaiper's French 3 class takes advantage of time for classroom study.

trend to automation

David Steins, Bob Foust, Bob Filby, and Mr. Nicholas Druley examine two different types of transits in FFA.

Whether students like to admit it or not, academics are the key basis upon which an academic institution is founded. Thus, RHS students must allot time and find places to study. Since there are not organized study halls, students usually make wise use of opportunities for a class study period. Homeroom also offers a place to bone up for classroom activities.

On weekends, most students are Sunday-come-lately's—that is, most wait until around eight o'clock before cracking the books.

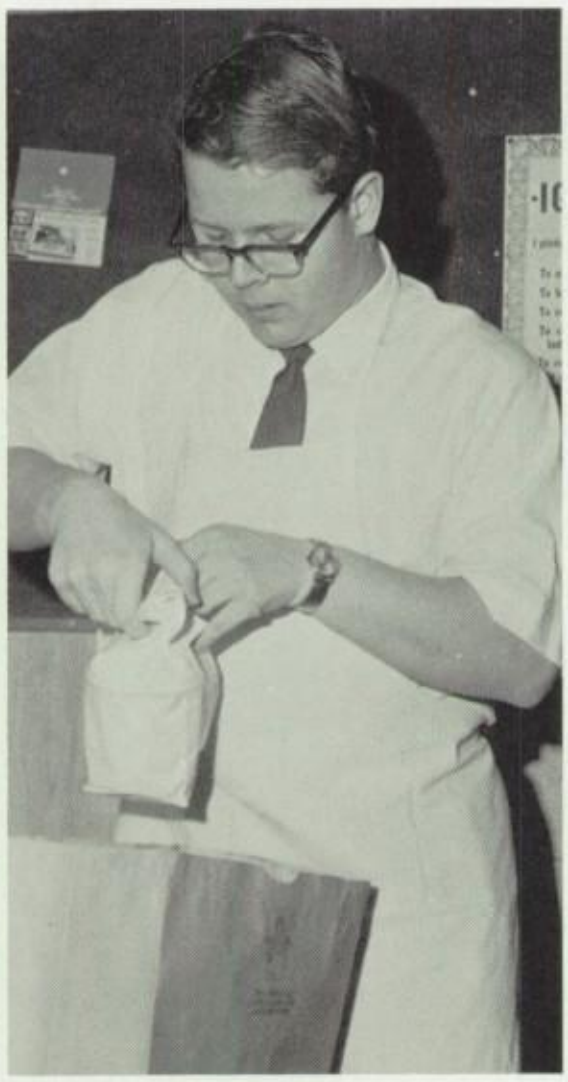
But no matter when or where students absorb the knowledge, most agree that school is a wise investment in the future.

RHS'ers take time out for fun;

Neither snow nor first hour can keep Tom Heidersbach, Toni-Jo Tiano, Mike Hilliard from making a snow man to welcome passersby.

Bob Garard, Mike Smith, and Bob Coddington pay Santa a surprise visit at Christmastime and let him in on their Christmas wishes.

after-school jobs pay dividends



A Devil did not spend all his time in the classroom. By 3:20, almost all of the 2200 students had left the premises and gone their separate ways.

Club activities, parties, hobbies, sports, dances, and just plain goofing off occupied the spare time of most Devils.

Many students found after-school jobs a lucrative way to earn some extra money. With days crammed full of activities, Devils found their days to be busy ones.

After school, Ken Toler spends his time sacking goods at Cox's Supermarket.

Thirsty Block R members Cheryl Strahan, Greta Dixon, Jeanne Cooper rely on concessions worker Rick Ebbinghouse to supply cokes.

Harold Smith, Mary Gaddis, and Miss Kathleen Cassidy paint scenery for Civic Theatre's "All the Way Home."

Mr. Phil Cecere and Patti Killion, RHS student, had starring roles in Civic Theatre's "Absence of a Cello." Mr. Cecere proposes marriage but Patti rejects him.

Steve Purcell and Mark Wilson, junior players, starred in the production "Tyl Eulenspiegel and the Talking Donkey."

talent in community projects

JARACO representative Tim Parr interviews a guest at the JA trade fair.

What better way for young people to prepare themselves for civic life than to participate in civic activities.

JA was introduced this year to Wayne County high school students. Teen members of this business education program operated and managed their own small-scale companies under the guidance of adult leaders. These 350 JA'ers met one evening per week for two hours.

Civic-minded seniors received the opportunity to serve as jurors this year. Teen traffic offenders appeared before the jury. Teen jury assisted in determining punishment for the offenders.

Students served the community through Civic Theatre, Junior Players, in after-school jobs, and at the local hospitals.

Pat Bunker and Steve Armbrust were chosen Miss and Mr. JA for the trade fair. Here, they look over the trade fair schedule.

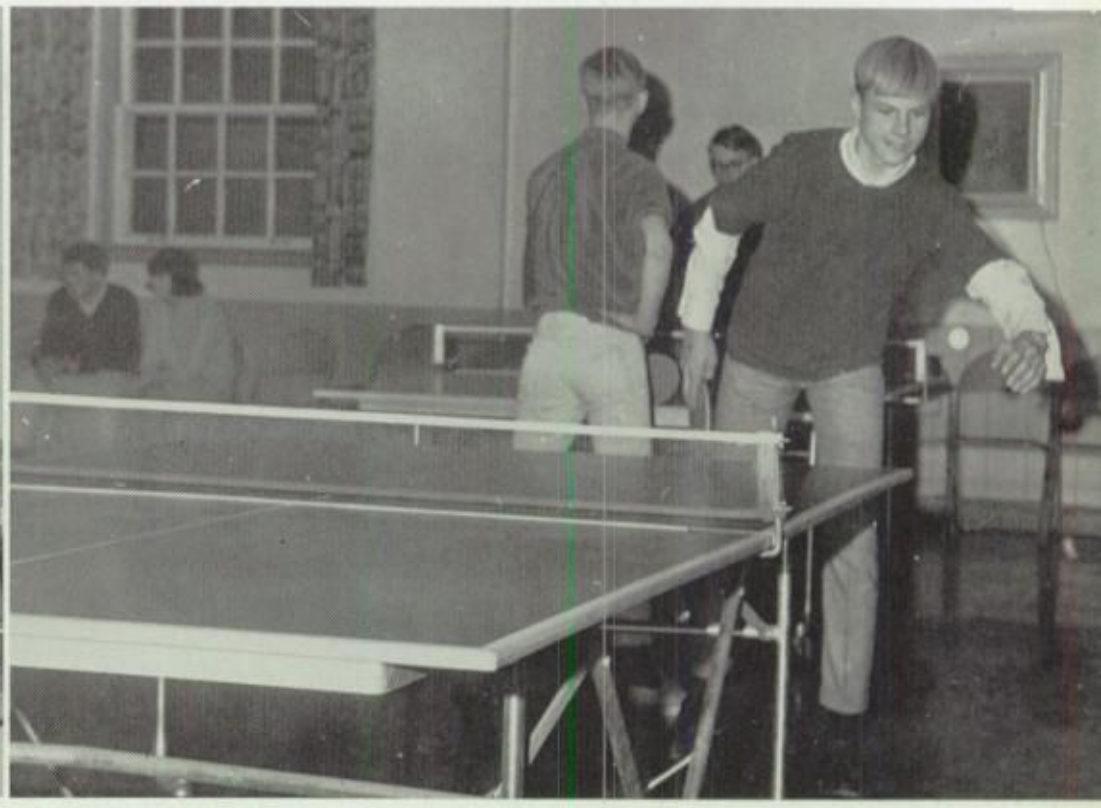
John Brown, STRECO, busies himself by preparing extension cords for selling.

TAC Council's Donna Smith and Dave Raper admit Dan Snyder and his date to one of TAC's many sponsored dances.

Students forget worries by

Volleyball is one of the newer activities provided by TAC. Both boys and girls are eager to play this active and enjoyable sport.

Stuart Harshman lines up his next shot as Ron Cooper watches. The pool table was a new addition to TAC club facilities.



Ping-pong is also close at hand at TAC club. Here, Terry Campbell finds that a quick game of ping-pong hits the spot.

relaxing at TAC

Susan Harshman and Bob Thatcher enjoy dancing "the charger" to music from the jukebox.

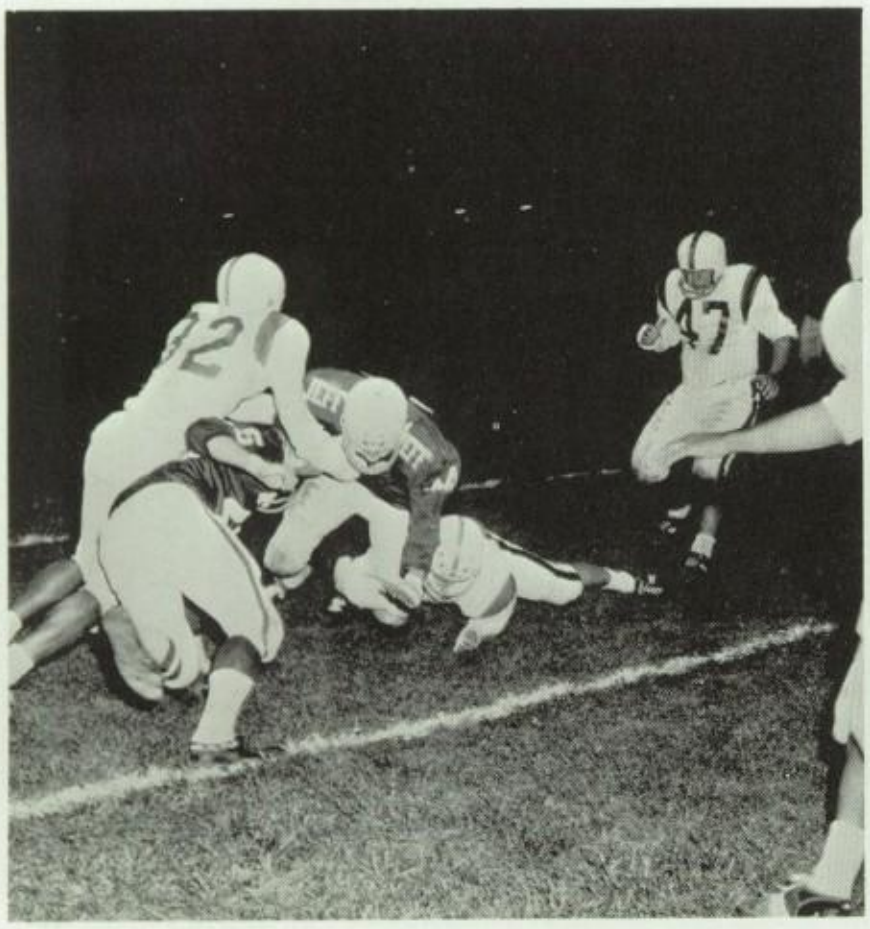
Each week-end, students can forget about that term paper deadline and the history test by going to TAC Club. This action-packed teen-age center located in the YWCA is run by a council of high school students. Captain Walter Stout and Mr. James Hardman, sponsors, along with five officers, organize and schedule many activities.

TAC Council collected donations for the State Hospital. TAC Council also planned a Mardi Gras booth and participated in the World Fellowship Dinner.

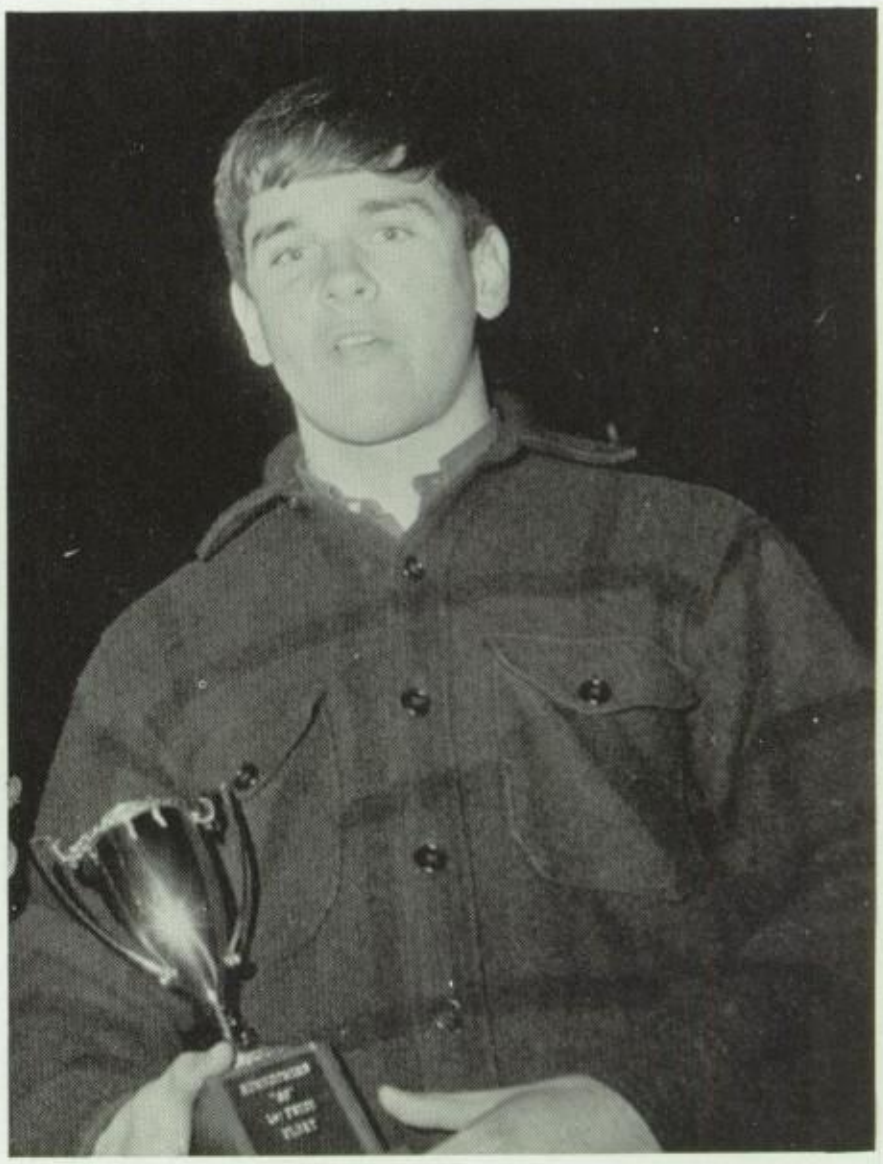
TAC Council was in charge of sponsoring such dances as the GI-Joe-A-Go-Go dance. Admission to the dance was gained by bringing first aid supplies or 50 cents. These items were sent to Viet Nam as requested by a former TAC Council member, Sgt. Lowell Gilmore, now serving in Viet Nam. The dance was a complete success with collections totaling more than $200.

Students danced and pranced at the "Pink Panther Prance," another dance sponsored by TAC Club. Chordials entertained for the dance and the highlight of the evening was when the "Pink Panther," a 1959 Rambler, was won by Mark Fulle.

The club's purpose is to provide all high school students in Wayne County with a place to meet and dance.



Dale Gordon (24) and unidentified RHS gridder block a Jeff advance.



Max Henry poses proudly with the trophy won by Junior Class Council for best float.

Sara Lemon, escorted by Tim Laughlin, begins her reign as Homecoming queen. Other candidates were Beth Geres and Kathy McGill.

Devilettes Jackie Emerick and Connie Hunt paint a section of Homecoming float.

Jim Quinlivan shows how RHS will take "Jeff" (Dick Joiner). Steve Ramsdell and referee Steve Hines watch.

Parade highlights Homecoming

Bobby Owens, mascot, casts his devilish presence over pep session festivities at homecoming pep session.

Homecoming parade this year was one of the best yet. It consisted of 46 cars and 11 floats. Prizes for the best decorated car and the best float were presented.

Twelve senior girls won first prize in the parade for the best decorated car. Their theme was "Spank Those Bronchos." The Junior Class Council won first place for their float entitled "Whip Those Bronchos."

The crowd was bouncing with enthusiasm for the pep session which was held after the parade. Pep Band provided lively sounds and the R Club's gruesome boxing match was the highlight of the evening.

A large Homecoming crowd turned out to see one of the state's hottest contested games on October 21. During halftime, Sara Lemon was crowned Homecoming Queen for 1966. The score at the end of the game was 18-0, with Lafayette the victor.

After a game of great enthusiasm, the crowd entered Civic Hall to the fine sounds of Baby Huey and the Babysitters. All who were present found the Homecoming of 1966 the best in every way.

RHS character built by sports

RHS boasts nine varsity sports—cross country, football, wrestling, basketball, swimming, baseball, tennis, golf, and track.

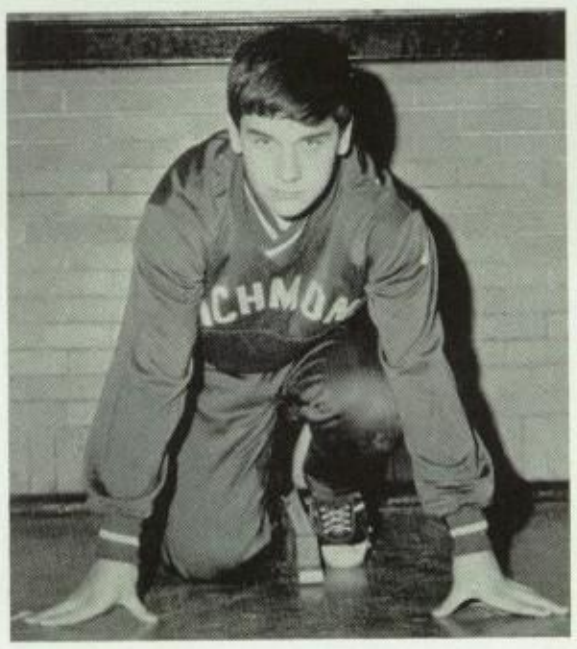
RHS belongs to two athletic associations. Participation in the NCC heightens competition in athletics, while the IHSAA makes it possible for the various schools to engage in an inter-school sports program.

Athletics builds not only strong bodies but also places emphasis on the building of personal character. Those in the athletic program realize that sportsmanship and hard work are necessary for winning teams.

Jim Garrett, senior harrier, pounds his way to the end of the two-mile race.

Tim Smock has the ball under control as he battles an opposing "B" team player.

John Clements putts after Tom Bartel, Mark Hamner, Bob DeMao have holed out.



Max Henry sharpens up on his starting stance as he prepares for a new season.

Dr. John Schrodt convinces convention representatives "Tomorrow is Now."

Signing-up was the first task of the 1119 Student Council representatives.

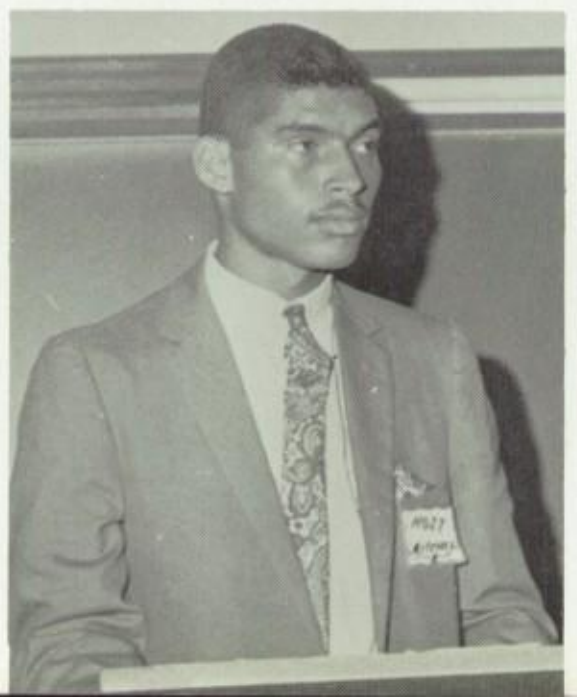
Ralph Loomis and Margie Fueglein discuss "Duties of Student Government."



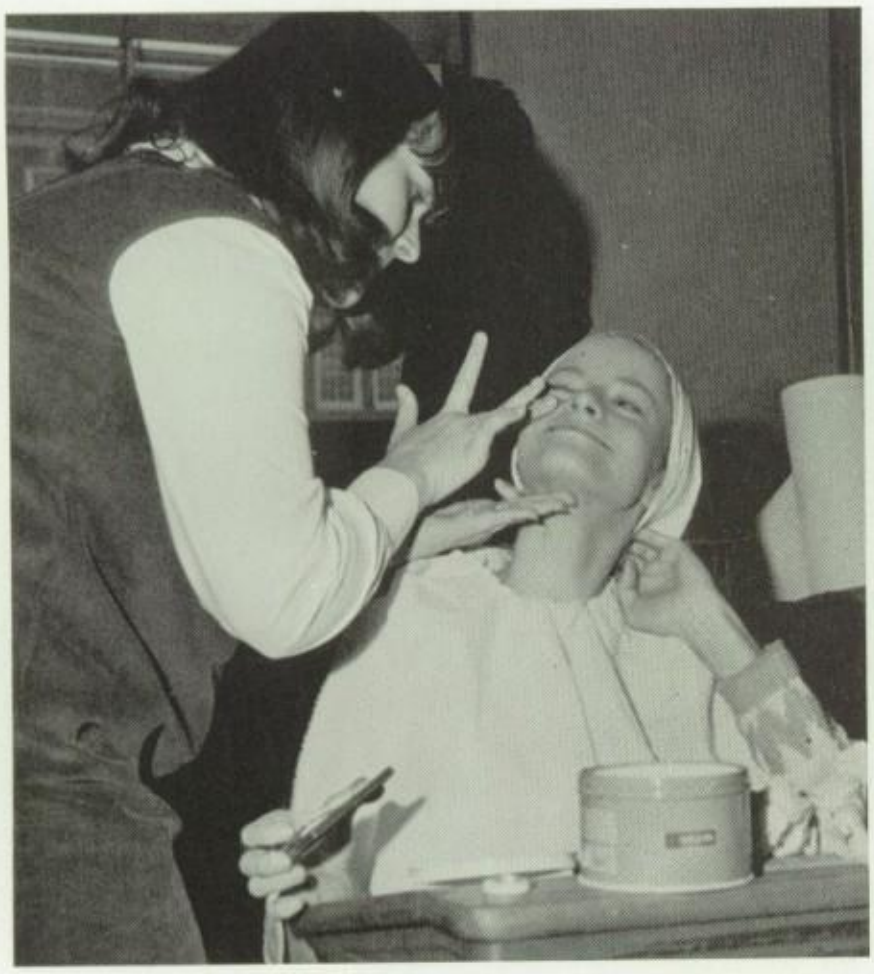
RHS Student Council representative Phillip Mitchell leads the discussion.

RHS received a great honor, besides a tremendous responsibility this year, as 1119 students and 150 sponsors from Indiana gathered here for the Indiana Student Council Convention.

Dr. John Schrodt, member of the Indiana University staff, was the main speaker for the event. He spoke on the theme, "Tomorrow Is Now," to the numerous representatives.

A variety of forty-two discussion topics provided the visitors with a great advantage in selecting the group of their choice. These subjects covered all of the aspects of student government.

RHS Student Council members will long remember the 1966 Student Council Convention as a day of progress in student government.



Make-up artists bring play characters to life. Here, Mary Anne Seikel puts finishing touches on Cindy Bowen.

Ed Terrell and Scott Ryder look over Kathy Leibrock's zoology book, a much discussed subject in the winter play.

Comedy presented in school play

Due to a misunderstanding, Kathy Leibrock slaps Dick Joiner in front of Cindy Bowen and Phil Payne in school comedy.

"Mother is a Freshman" was successfully presented February 16 and 17 by a cast from all three classes. An all-school play was the first of its kind in several years — in previous years, only seniors were allowed to engage in a play production.

The light comedy centered around college life. Leading roles were played by Dick Joiner, Kathy Leibrock, Craig Wiechman, Philip Payne, and Cindy Bowen.

Backstage and make-up technicians are not to be overlooked in the success of the production. The scenery was built by the backstage crew for the first time in several years. Without the make-up crew, the characters would have lost much of their reality. Make-up was headed by Patti Killion.

Mrs. Zianna Alley was cast director and Miss Drucilla Stillwagon served as technical director.

Assemblies add zest to RHS life

At the pre-Lafayette pep session, a student skit was presented. Here, Tom Barth (Jeff coach) tells Cheryl Kettler (NCC crown) that he is going to take her away.

All-school assemblies add zest to the daily routine of a school day.

At Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter, inspirational assemblies are held. At the Thanksgiving assembly, Steve Land, a West Virginia student, spoke on teenagers' role in modern society. Christmas assembly featured the various musical groups presenting holiday arrangements.

A highlight of the school year was the fall assembly when Senator Birch Bayh held a question-answer session on U.S. policy.

Pep sessions always provide students with a chance to let off some steam as well as rouse support for RHS teams.

Other annual assemblies included National Honor Society initiation, Student Council induction, and the senior Honors and Awards assembly.

Mardi Gras held in fall

Mardi Gras games test one's skill. Linda Levy prepares to toss hoops over rubber legs at the "Lady Gay Saloon."

Carol's Critters schemed up a lifelike lion with a moving jaw to star at their booth. Beverlee Michael (front), Peggy Manis, Susan Allshouse, and Pat Peterson (rear) add mane to the lion's head.

for first time;7000 attend

Half the fun was putting all the pieces together in three hours and finishing with a booth pleasing to the eye.

For the first time, Mardi Gras was held in the fall this year. Over 7,000 people turned out to try their luck in the 32 booths.

Theme for the 1966 Mardi Gras was "Saturday Night at the Movies." Twenty Y-Teens groups and twelve other groups constructed booths for the event.

Awards were presented to Suzy Stragand's Y-Teen group for the best decorated booth. The group's theme was "Flower Drum Song." Most original award was given to Sandy McGuire's group. Their theme was "How the West Was Won." "Clarence, the Cross-Eyed Lion" was the theme of Carol Adney's group, which won a prize for the best all-around booth.

Many new aspects were added to make this Mardi Gras the best yet. A cardboard floor was put down to protect the floor and prevent extra clean-up work. Also, a searchlight was used in front of the high school to attract passersby.

Reigning over Mardi Gras festivities as Oscar and Emmy were Ron Hill and Barbara Parent.

Mrs. Ralph Whisenhunt has served as gallery director for several years. Here, she examines a work of art in her office.

Julie McGuire enjoys sight-seeing at a photography exhibit.

RHS boasts school art gallery

Richmond High School is the first high school in the world to have one building devoted to the fine arts with a school-associated civic art gallery. The four galleries are housed in McGuire Hall, named in memory of the mother of Charles A. McGuire, whose generosity made the building a reality. Four galleries display exhibits of native Hoosier artists, as well as works and collections of world-renowned artists.

Art galleries and the Art Association have always held a special significance for the students of Richmond. Art students contribute art work to annual All-School Art Exhibit. Other classes in the school often visit the galleries during classtime and use the art works as a basis for compositions.

Mrs. Ralph Whisenhunt, director of galleries, and Mrs. Carl Schneideweind, assistant director, co-ordinate all art activities.

Art, too, serves as a symbol of total excellence at RHS.

Mrs. Ralph Whisenhunt tells Teresa Freshwater about a painting in a permanent gallery.

Dances kept students frugging

Dan Sinnott finds courage to ask Pat Gauker for a dance at the "Shower of Hearts."

Dances held throughout the year kept students in the swing of things.

Football season was kicked off with the Gridiron Get-Together. Y-Teens sponsored the dance and the Trojans entertained with groovy music.

Civic Hall was transformed into a red hot Devils den for the Devilette dance. Lee Ferrell reigned as king of "Devilettes Devil."

At the Y-Teen girl-invite dance "Shower of Hearts," Joe Gustin reigned as king of the event.

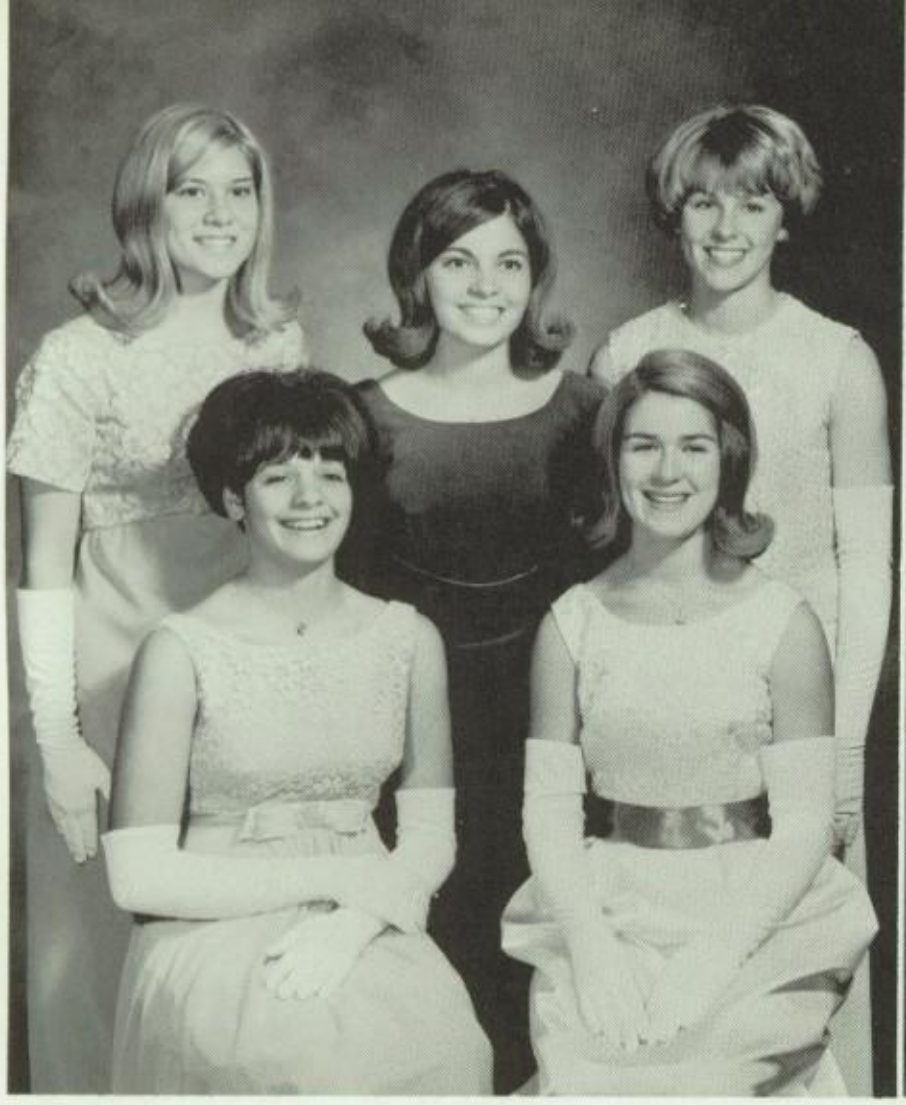
At the R-Club Sweetheart dance, Shelby Kelly was crowned Sweetheart.

These dances helped to make lasting memories of the 1967 social year.

Devilettes Devil draws a large crowd to join in dancing and festivities.

Suzy Stragand crowns Joanne Dudas, Nut Princess at Y-Teen Nut Sale Dance.

Jay Balestrieri crowns Shelby Kelly R-Club Sweetheart at the R-Club Dance.



Maria Theodorakis, Pat Parker (sitting), Betty Long, Suzanna Mull, Rae Ferriell, were candidates for annual Snowball.

1966 Snowball nominees for king were Mark Coleman, Tom Kitchin, (sitting), Fred Gennett, Rusty Owens, Bob Coddington.

Waterfall highlights Snowball

Dancers were swept into a magical evening of music and fun as the annual Snowball began.

"The Night That Was," the theme of the dance, was sponsored by Hi-Y. Dancers whirled to the music of Gene Gabbard and his orchestra.

Most extraordinary eye-catcher of the decorations was the big waterfall. To each side, bedrocks and pine trees were beautifully arranged around the colorful, lighted, running waterfall.

The clock struck 11:00 and the most thrilling part of the evening took place. The king and queen were crowned. They were chosen from ten candidates. Reigning as king and queen for the 1966 Snowball were Rusty Owens and Betty Long. They were crowned beneath a large paper shell of blue.

At the end of the evening, this was "The Night That Was."

Members in charge of the plans were Ralph Loomis and Steve Duning, decorations; Lee Ferrell, crown and charms; Tom Kitchin, publicity; Greg Dils, chaperones; Mark Ingels, refreshments; Mark Gildenhar, tickets; and Mick Miller, entertainment. The general chairman of the event was Mark Coleman and the co-chairman was Steve Hines.

Steve Hines crowns Betty Long, Snowball queen. Rusty Owens reigned as king.

Queen crowned 'In Still of Night'

Each girl, attired in her most beautiful gown, was escorted by her favorite beau. The couples walked hand-in-hand through a decorative park scene accented in green and brown.

This was the atmosphere of the 1967 Junior-Senior Prom 'In the Still of the Night,' Friday, April 21 from 9 to 12.

Candidates for queen of the dance were Sarah Mikesell, Cheryl Kettler, Linda Loomis, Carol Pearce, and Joanne McNew. Queen was crowned at 11 p.m.

Jimmy May and his eleven-piece orchestra promenaded dreamily through the "park."

Each year the juniors hold a prom for the graduating seniors. Each year the prom is a success due to responsible junior class officers. Class sponsors Mrs. Aileen Githens, Mrs. Martha Linburg, and Mr. Troy Ingram also devoted a tremendous amount of time and hard work towards the event.

Queen candidates for Junior-Senior Prom were Cheryl Kettler, Joanne McNew, Linda Loomis, Carol Pearce, and Sarah Mikesell.

Pam Henry, left, rehearses with nominees for Miss Teenage America Pageant. Marilyn Van Debeur and Allen Ludden were hosts.

Doris Henry and Bonnie Newman focus their eyes upon Tauni Bledsoe, new Junior Miss, and Diane Bartlemay, last year's Junior Miss.

Students rewarded for excellence

Senior Jay Balestrieri receives a letter and handshake from Mr. Virgil Little for athletic achievement in football.

RHS can boast of many outstanding students. A variety of honors and awards were presented to students pursuing excellence in all phases of school life.

Academic excellence was recognized in a variety of ways. Five students earned National Merit Scholarships this year. Monica Young, Mike Coveney, Sara Lemon, Philip Payne, and Judy Lasky rated high scores on the test, thus making them eligible for full scholarships.

Sixty-seven juniors and seniors were recognized for academic excellence in school life through National Honor Society initiation.

Beauty and talent were also recognized in Richmond's youth during the year. Richmond Jaycees sponsored the third annual Junior Miss Pageant. Out of the competing girls, RHS senior Tauni Bledsoe won the title of 1967 Junior Miss. Along with the title, she received a $250 scholarship.

Richmond community felt honored when RHS Junior Pam Henry was selected as an at-large finalist in the Miss Teenage America Pageant. Pam traveled to Dallas, Texas, to engage in the competition. Although she advanced no further in competition, she well-represented Richmond youth.

In athletics, RHS athletes were awarded letters, jackets, and chevrons at seasonal athletic assemblies.

Graduation marks end of 12 years' work

Graduation is the high point of every senior's life. It signifies the end of twelve years of hard work—for some, graduation will lead to employment or entrance into the service, and for others, graduation is a mere stepping stone toward higher education. Nevertheless, for every senior, graduation is an event filled with anticipation and happiness, as well as sorrow.

Last year's graduation marked the ninety-fifth annual commencement exercises. Six hundred twenty-nine were graduate in 1966.

Uniformly dressed in maroon and white gowns, students marched to their seats to the sound of "Pomp and Circumstance." Reverend Calvin Cheek, pastor of the Church of the Brethern, delivered the meditation. Two year-end speakers for 1966 were Elizabeth Ann Chambers, who spoke on "High School is a Future," and Kim Morris Snyder, who spoke on "Calisthenics for Tomorrow." Then came the big moment when 629 seniors received a symbol of 12 years of schooling—their diploma. Reverend Robert Minton, pastor of Holy Family Church, delivered the benediction and graduation exercises had officially ended.

Prior to graduation, the senior class participated in Baccalaureate exercises on Sunday, June 5; and on Wednesday, June 8, the senior class held its annual senior picnic.

For any graduating class, graduation symbolizes not the end but the beginning. It symbolizes advancement into the adult world and a pathway to the future.

A mixture of maroon and white was seen as '66 seniors lined up for graduation.

Graduates march from commencement exercises. Seniors, totaling 629, took part in the 95th graduation ceremony.

Thirty-six clubs and organizations provided students with an opportunity to increase their interests in a certain area and to gain new friendships. Areas of community service, hobbies, occupations, sports, student government, languages, and music were well represented by the club activities offered. Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday were designated as club days and most clubs met every other week during homeroom.

Two new school-sponsored clubs, Drama Club and GAA, were added to the activities schedule this year. A new community activity in which a number of Richmond High School students participated was Junior Achievement.

All clubs were made possible by the Director of Student Activities, Mr. Donald Mays, who arranged the scheduling of club activities, and by the many sponsors who gave of their time and efforts to provide adult leadership for the various clubs.

The clubs and organizations at Richmond High School serve as a channel through which the RHS spirit and student efforts can be felt throughout the community and county.

Student spirit is aroused at a pre-game ceremony by the Devilettes. Their smiles and colorful formations are remembered by all in attendance.

Six energetic officers and 250 girls form Richmond's cheer-block, Block R.

Richmond's Block R has done many new things this year; a football block was organized, new uniforms were purchased, and flashcards were used to back the Devils in sight, as well as in sound.

The sale of stadium cushions, a bake sale, a girl invite dance, and a "Red Devil Day", were projects initiated by Block R this year.

Block R promoted school spirit and loyalty by backing athletic events. The purpose of Block R is to cheer the Devils to victory.

The officers are Sara Sage, president; Sara Lemon, song leader; Darice Kitchel, vice-president; Patty Kirk, secretary; Susie Klemann, treasurer; and Linda Hall, sergeant-at-arms. Faculty sponsors of the cheer block are Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Miller, Mrs. Rogena Harrison, and Mrs. Shirley Thurston.

R Club lettermen have faculty game, dinner dance

R Club sponsored a booth at Mardi Gras, the R Club Dance, and the faculty-R Club basketball game, R Club purchased equipment that was used by members in the athletic program. A dinner dance for all R Club members was held. Special awards were given for their service and for recognition of athletic achievement.

R Club consists of lettermen who participate in one or more of the various sports. R Club forms the male cheering section at athletic events.

R Club was lead this year by Mike Lafuze, president; Greg Friend, vice-president; Steve Purcell, secretary-treasurer; and Bob Ward, sergeant-at-arms. Mr. James Peters and Mr. Michael Rodich were sponsors of the club.

Electronics Club is guest of Wright - Patterson

Mardi Gras began a long list of scheduled activities for Electronics Club this year. Trips were made to Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Dayton, Ohio, and to the Indiana state police post. Local industries and the radio stations were visited also.

Promoting interest and education of electronics is the primary function of the club.

Presiding officers were Steve Shank, president; Mike Chambers, vice-president; Ernie McDaniels, secretary; and Steve Wentz, sergeant-at-arms. Mr. Robert Rehmel was advisor of Electronics Club.

Danny McDaniel, Mike Chambers, and Ernie McDaniel, members of Electronics Club use citizen's band radio for communication.

Bible Club links students with church, religion

Several speakers visited Bible Club and the group attended church services during the year.

At Christmas, grocery baskets were made for the Salvation Army and at Easter, cards and gifts were given to a nursing home.

The presiding officer of Bible Club was Fred Bickel with Nancy Scherer as secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Rogena Harrison is the sponsor of the club.

The Bible Club is a link between students and religion. The Club worked to acquaint students with the Bible and to strengthen morals and self-discipline.

Concert Choir cuts record at Leland Inn

Concert Choir enables the members to express themselves vocally and to improve techniques in singing.

Concert Choir made a television appearance in Indianapolis last November. "They Call the Wind Maria," "The Shadow of Your Smile," and "On the Street Where You Live," were selections that were sung on the television show. These songs were recorded on a 45 RPM record and were sold by Concert Choir.

The musical "Oklahoma" was presented by Concert Choir and the RHS Singers.

Concert Choir sang at the Christmas assembly and at Test Junior High. They presented several concerts with the RHS Singers and Concert Orchestra during the year.

Concert Choir practices for a record they are going to cut. Rehearsal was held at the Leland Inn ballroom. This makes the sixth year that they have made a record.

Speech Club informs as well as entertains

Speech Club's first responsibility is to its members in seeing that they have the opportunity to gain experience in all kinds of public speaking.

Participation in the Muncie Speech Conference, American Legion Speech Contest, and Rotary Speech Contest were a few of the year's planned activities. Studied this year were original speeches, dramatic and humorous interpretations, poetry readings and extemporaneous speeches. Platform theater plays were presented by the Speech Club to outside community groups upon request.

Cheryl Eilar led the Speech Club with assistance from Mark Stolle, Donna Smith, and Bob Coddington, and guidance from Mr. Dudley Johnson.

New Drama Club attends, presents productions

Drama Club members working to construct their booth before Mardi Gras deadline are Linda Broncho, Leon Michaels, Elona Brotherton, Morris Tubesing, and Jay Balestrieri.

Drama Club began its first year as an organization with the adoption of a constitution. Members of Drama Club volunteered their services to the Richmond Civic Theater by helping with stage structure and other off-stage duties. They also attended Civic Theater productions.

Drama Club traveled to Klowes Hall, at Butler University, Murst Temple, in Indianapolis, and to several other concerts and plays. Members of Drama also produced, directed, and took part in a play presented for RHS. Drama Club was represented at Mardi Gras and in the Homecoming Parade.

Drama Club stimulated an interest in all fields of the theatrical profession. Members obtained better knowledge of productions, both on stage and behind the scenes.

Sponsors of Drama Club are Miss Drucilla Stillwagon and Mr. Charles Matthews. The presiding officers were Steve Duning, president; Kathy Freeman, vice-president; Sally Heet, secretary; Elizabeth Ryder, treasurer; and Jay Balestrieri, sergeant-at-arms.

Future Teachers accent tourney with carnations

One award presented at the annual senior award assembly was provided by the Future Teachers. They awarded a scholarship to a deserving senior in the club. Several student teachers and school officials spoke on the subject of teaching as a career. Future Teachers also sold tourney flowers preceding the basketball tourney.

Future Teachers provide members with more information about the teaching profession. The club also participated in Mardi Gras with a booth entitled "The Blackboard Jungle."

The presiding officers were Ruth Coddington, president; Debbie Stapleton, vice-president; Diane Hockerman, secretary; Gretchen Smith, treasurer; and Robert Rice, sergeant-at-arms. Mr. Denney French and Mr. Harold Trout were sponsors of the Future Teachers.

Becky Hunt, Ruth Coddington, and Mr. Franklin Coddington help to put up the booth for Future Teachers. The theme of the booth was "Blackboard Jungle."

Future Homemakers profit from knitting lessons

Carol Leonard, Brenda Dooley, and Marsha Ball, members of Future Homemakers, learn to cross-stitch embroidery. The girls found this way of sewing to be much fun.

Knitting lessons were among the activities of Future Homemakers this year. Along with knitting lessons, the girls obtained hints on crocheting and sewing. Speakers also entertained Future Homemakers. A bake sale was held as a moneymaking project.

Future Homemaker's objective is to inform girls of better techniques in home, family, and community life.

Presiding officers were Brenda Dooley, president; Marsha Ball, vice-president, and program chairman; and Carol Leonard, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Jeanne Parker was the club sponsor.

Sports Officiating displays skills in refereeing

Thirty-eight members participate in Sports Officiating club, sponsored by Mr. John Yoho. Speakers this year were well-known officials, as well as head coaches at Richmond High School.

Sports Officiating creates interest and understanding in officiating. It gives the boys a broader knowledge of sports and helps them develop skillful techniques in officiating sports.

Members officiated the Junior Hi-Y football games and the elementary basketball games in Richmond. This gave the members the experience and satisfaction needed for a career in officiating.

Concert, Varsity Bands give seasonal concerts

Bands are an important asset to the total school program. Here, the varsity band practices for one of the several concerts they give during the year.

Bands play an important role in the music department. Concert Band, directed by Mr. John Parshall, and Varsity Band, directed by Mr. Paul Korns, present many concerts throughout the year. In addition, the pep band provides rousing tunes designed to bolster school spirit at all student pep sessions.

Concert Band began the concert season with rehearsals for the winter concert in December. The concert presented a variety of musical selections for those in attendance. Another concert was presented in the spring.

First musical program given by the Concert Band was the Christmas program at Ayr-Way. The band played a host of holiday arrangements in order to lend a holiday atmosphere to the season's festivities. Extra out-of-class activities included a concert at Dennis Junior High School and an appearance at the annual Honors and Awards Assembly in June.

Orchestra performs at concerts, commencement

Senior High Orchestra has played an important role in the social activities of the past year. Their performances at assemblies, musical shows, community affairs, and commencement proved to be an enriching experience for all who attended.

Concert Orchestra provides students a chance for musicianship.

This year the orchestra attended the All-State Orchestra and the Manchester String Festival. They also played at the annual winter and spring concerts.

Concert Orchestra is designed to create an appreciation of instrumental music for both the musician and the listener.

National Honor Society assembly gave orchestra a rare opportunity to display its talents for the student body. Orchestra performs at the initiation.

Marching Band, Devilettes rank fifth at fair

State fair band competition at Indianapolis draws thousands each year. RHS Marching Band executes its routine—their performance earned fifth place.

There was a burst of applause from the stands as the Richmond High School Marching Band and Devilettes marched onto the track in competition for the Indiana State Fair Band Day. The band attained a fifth place rating in the competition.

Marching Band presented a pre-game show and was part of a mass half-time show at Purdue University. They were featured at Ball State Band Day. Marching Band performed at the football games and marched in the Get-Out-And-Vote Parade.

Officers of the band are Rusty Owens, captain; Robert Rice, first sergeant; Jeanne Bolyard, secretary; and Joe Gustin, treasurer. Mr. Parshall is the director of the band.

Devilettes presented colorful half-time shows during football and basketball games. They marched with the Marching Band at all appearances. Devilettes also worked with the band on the annual candy sale.

The girls sponsored a dance called "The Devilettes Devil."

Officers of Devilettes are Sarah Mikesell, president; Becky Thomas, vice-president; and Barbara Parent, secretary.

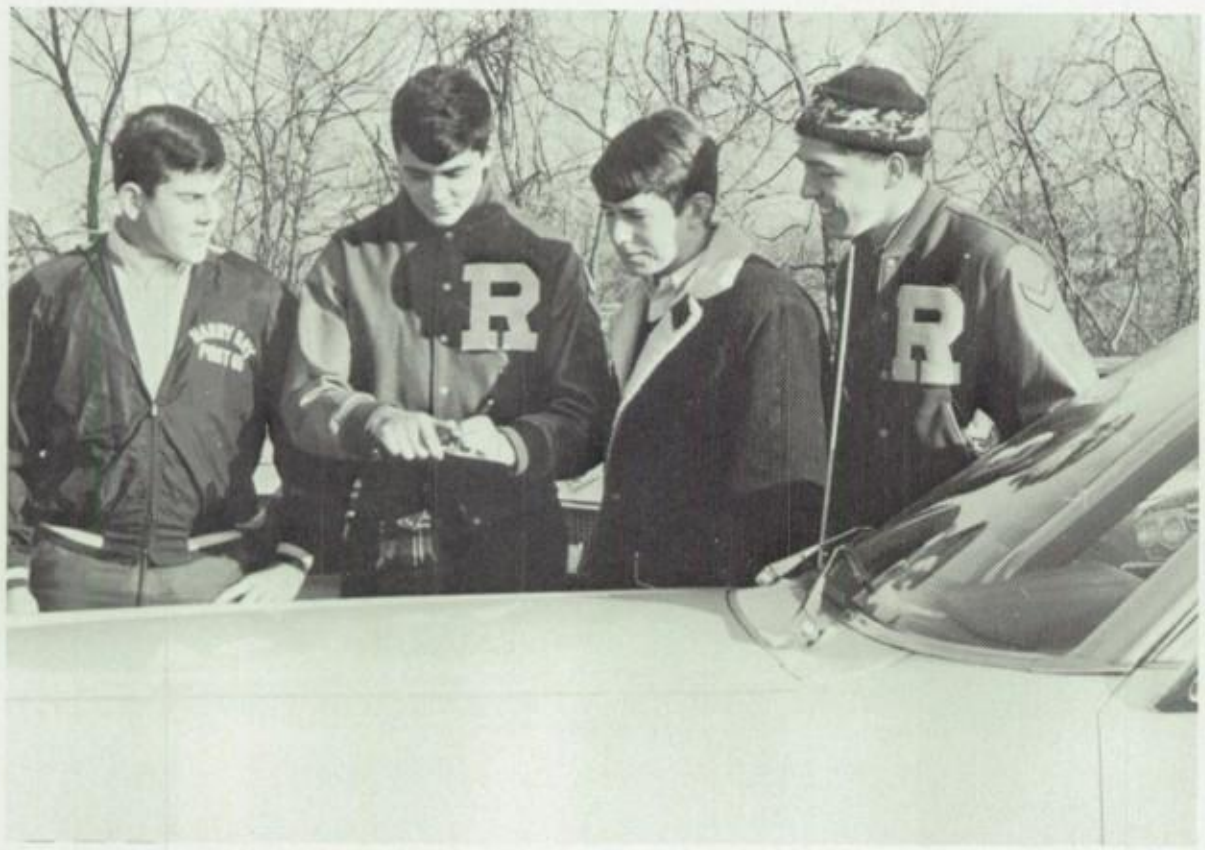
National Honor Society is just a segment of the world wide organization known as the National Honor Society.

NHS began its year with the annual induction assembly. Prior to this assembly, students were chosen and screened by the officers of Honor Society and various members of the faculty including Mr. Maddock, who is the sponsor of Honor Society. Entrance is based upon five individual qualities—scholarship, character, leadership, citizenship, and service. Sixty-seven new members were inducted this year, making a total of 103 members in National Honor Society.

Officers included Mark Gildenhar, president; Mike Coveney, vice-president; Sara Lemon, secretary; and Linda Loomis, treasurer.

NHS recognizes outstanding students of RHS. This year, as in the past, Honor Society awarded a scholarship to an outstanding graduating senior.

Honor Society was in charge of the sale of tickets at the Mardi Gras, and also helped with the financial report.



Student Council Safety Committee members Mike Smith, Bob Coddington, chairman; Steve Defibaugh, and Gary Gardner check proper registration and parking of cars.

Each Monday morning the president's gavel sounds in McGuire Hall. Student Council was host to the 1966 State Student Council Convention. Other projects included Commencement dance, the election of cheerleaders and queen candidates, and issuing safety stickers to student drivers.

President of Student Council is Fred Killion. The other officers are Myron Chenault, vice-president; Sarah Mikesell, secretary; Cheryl Kettler, treasurer; and Steve Purcell, sergeant-at-arms.

Student Council is founded on the plan to promote better student government and to voice the opinion of the student body concerning school policy and student welfare.

Committees drawn up during the 1966-67 year were safety, elections, school spirit, assemblies, bulletin board, publicity, and honors hall.

Student body can be proud of the accomplishments gained by this year's council.

Red Cross cheers soldiers in Viet Nam with gifts

Robert Cooper and Dee Ann Wilson, Red Cross members, prepare diddy bags with holiday gifts for American soldiers stationed in Viet Nam.

Sending Christmas gifts to soldiers in Viet Nam was Red Cross Club's main project of the year. Members of the club held bake sales to earn money for buying Christmas presents.

Red Cross stresses the importance of service to others.

The presiding officers this year were Debbie Smith, president; Nancy Rourke, vice-president; Linda Conder, Secretary; Christine Cornelison, publicity; and Belinda Smith, program chairman. Mrs. Daphne Floyd is the sponsor of the organization.

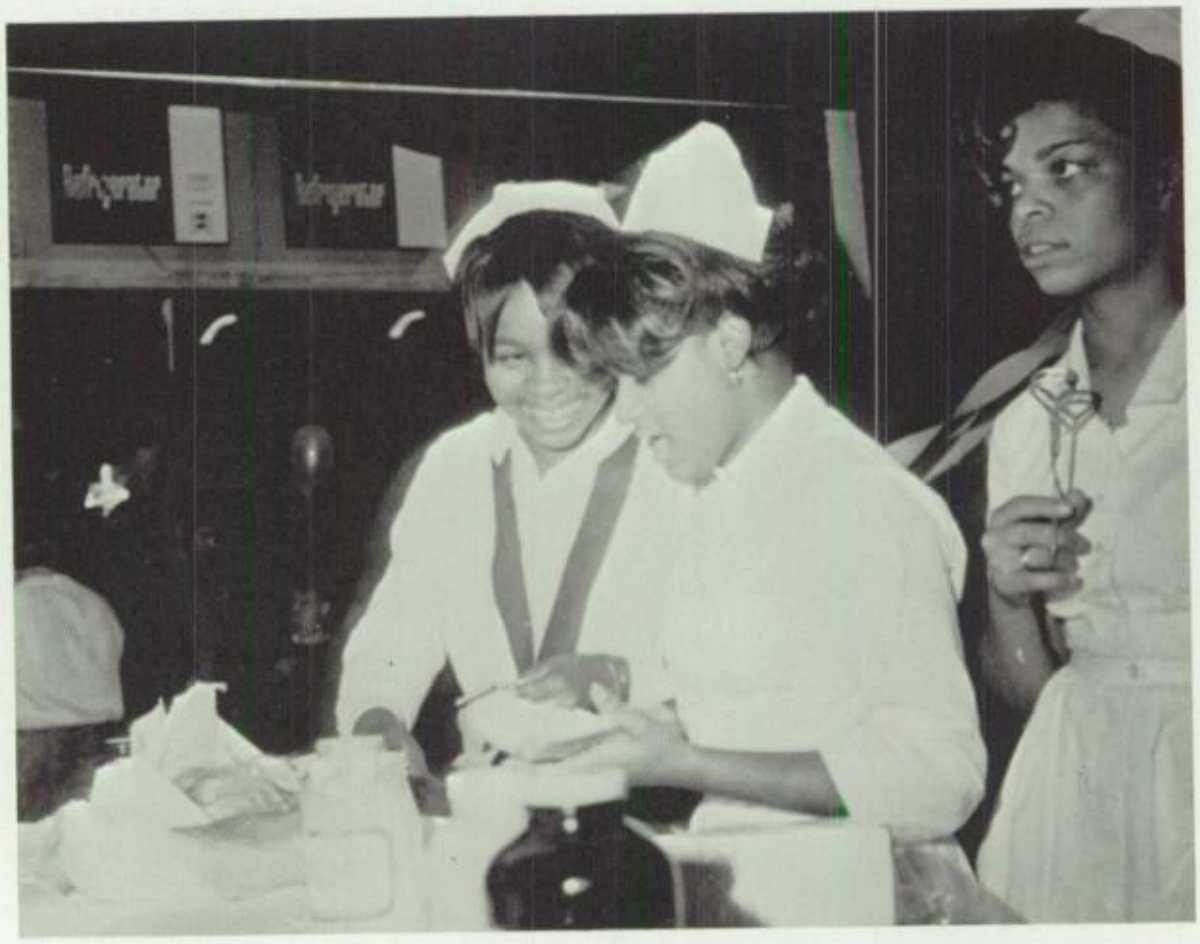
Tuberculin testing illustrates career to Future Nurses

Future Nurses received first-hand experience in nursing while helping with the annual tuberculin testing. During the testing the girls aided the school nurses in keeping records, swabbing arms, and setting up "inoculation guns."

"The Nurses" was the theme of their booth at Mardi Gras. The girls made scheduled trips to Miami Valley Hospital School of Nursing and to the Eli Lilly Laboratory.

Future Nurses provides an insight into the rewarding field of nursing.

Officers of Future Nurses were Susan Harshman, president; Debbie Schmidt, vice-president; Debbie Walls, secretary; and Charlene Milam, reporter. Mrs. Martha Linburg was club sponsor.



Future Nurses Club had "just the right medicine" for the hungry crowd at the fall Mardi Gras. "Nurses" on duty are Debbie Walls, Marilyn Tevis, and Mary Chenault.

Barb Parent, activities editor, and Janet Hackman, clubs editor, prepare cutlines. Debbie Good, copy editor, and Doris Murray, index editor, look over some copy sheets.

Yearbooks are made by careful planning. Gretchen Smith, editor, and Mr. Jerry Woodring, adviser, discuss copy sheets and pictures to be sent to press for publication.

Carol Pearce, activities, and Mark Harris, photographer, standing, watch Claire Ungerer, layouts, and Steve Loar, art editor, sitting, prepare two of the 184 trimats to be sent for Pierian publication.

Rosemary Piper, clubs; Kit Clarke, activities; Mary Fannin, album; and Merralynn Floyd, album editor, are all busily pecking away at their typewriters.

Index, spot color, 26 pages added to 1967 Pierian

Twenty-seven Pierian staff members found that the production of a yearbook included long hours, broken pencil points, misplaced copy, unidentified pictures, and most of all—dedication. Perhaps the most rewarding moment for a yearbook staff is when the distribution party is over, the staff can sit back and relax, and enjoy the work that they have created.

Pierian staff's job began the minute last year's yearbook went to press, and it ended at the distribution party in June. Gretchen Smith, Pierian editor, attended Indiana University Journalism Institute in August, while Mr. Jerry Woodring, Pierian adviser, served as an instructor at the Ball State Journalism Workshop in July and August. In September the staff began its task, and they worked an average of twenty hours weekly to meet four deadlines. In October the business staff began the arduous task of starting the sales, and their efforts ended in the selling of 1800 copies of the Pierian, the largest number of sales in the history of the yearbook. Staff efforts culminated in several additions and changes to the yearbook—the addition of a student index, 26 additional pages, spot color throughout the opening section, expanded club coverage, and more pictures throughout the book.

The editorial staff and the business staff, besides managing finances, typing copy, drawing layouts, and writing captions, are proud of the fact that their efforts have preserved the tradition of publishing an account of the school year.

Business staff Ellen Isley, Mike Brady, Beth Isley, and Barb Craft check financial records on Pierian sales. Business staff doubled previous sales by selling 1800 books.

Dale Gordon, sports editor; Gayle Cummins, album; Van Decker, sports; Sherri Shank, clubs, and Judy Fetzer, copy, get materials ready for publishing.

Diane Reis, Debbie Good head Register staffs;

Mr. Dennis Fach, printer, and Mr. Jerry Woodring, Register adviser, cast approving glances at the finished product.

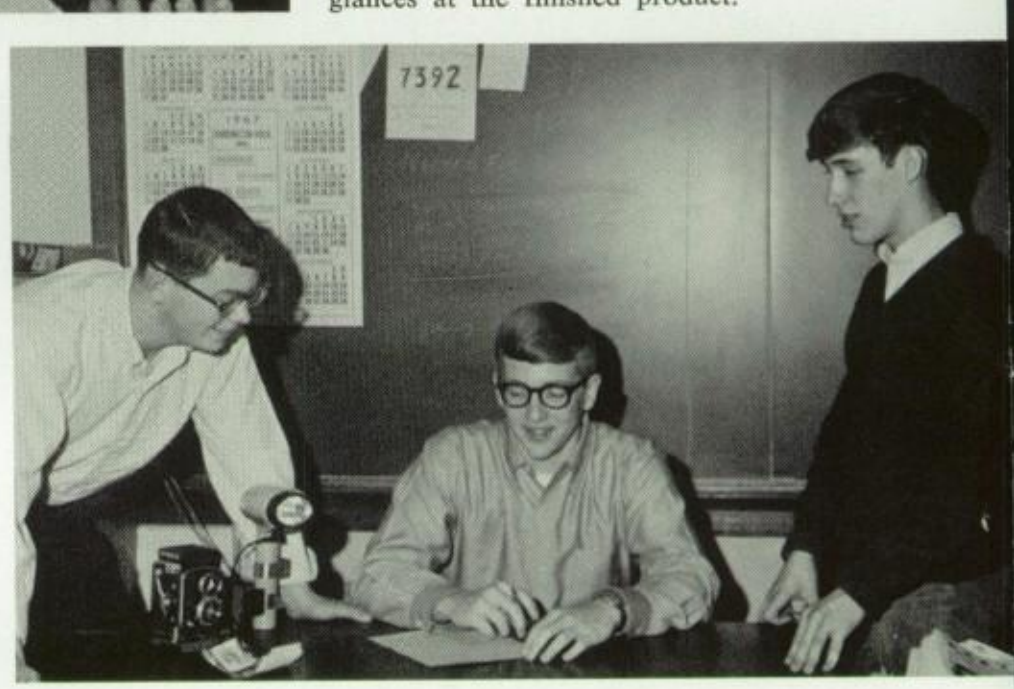
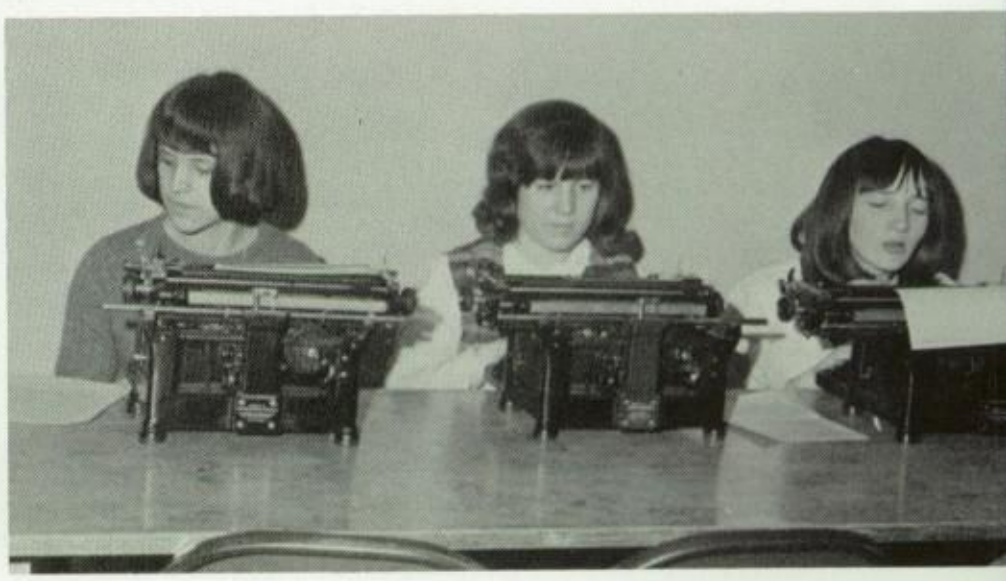
Typing final copies of stories to be used in the Register are Carolyn Harman, associate editor; Rosemary Stanley, business manager; and Marlene Ruble, assistant business manager.



Ginny Joiner, copy editor; Sherri Shank, news editor; and Amy Vosmeier, feature editor, of the spring staff admire week's work.



25 Register editions issued to student body

Register assignment book gets checked over by Debbie Good, spring editor, and Diane Reis, fall editor, members of the fall staff. Fall staff published 12 issues.

Students interested in Journalism gain actual experience in publishing a newspaper from work on the Register, a high school newspaper since 1896.

This four-page weekly publication is produced by students from Journalism 2 and Journalism 3 classes. News, features, sports, photos, and cartoons make up the four pages.

Each person contributes to the finished product. Though each student has a special position on the staff, he also writes stories and headlines, interviews people for potential news and meets deadlines. Every day of the week holds some special job for the staff. For instance, students must submit their stories by Monday, lay out the page and proof-read the copy on Tuesday, visit the school administrators for potential news on Wednesday, think of stories for the next issue on Thursday, and distribute the finished product on Friday.

Fall semester editor, Diane Reis, and spring semester editor, Debbie Good, were each assisted by a ten-member staff. Mr. Jerry Woodring was the faculty adviser for the publication.

A total of 25 editions of the Register were printed this year. Several of these were 6-page issues.

Writing a feature story for an October issue of the Register are Jane Rice, feature editor, and Mike Goens, writer.

Connie Michael, news editor, explains a news story and picture assignment to Mary Ann Russell and Buddy Race.

Quill Club takes pen in hand, writes magazine

Quill Club's main project was publishing Quill, a literary magazine. Each member contributed articles to the magazine. The club had speakers who discussed writing and publishing.

Quill Club promotes an interest in creative writing and gives students a chance to participate in creative writing projects.

The officers were Donna Smith, editor; Cheryl Eilar, assistant editor; Susan Young, secretary; and Harry Morrison, business manager. The sponsor of Quill Club was Miss Lucille Meacham.

Cheryl Eilar, Susan Young, and Donna Smith enjoy reading over past issues of Quill magazine. Quill is published yearly by all students interested in literary writing.

Jr.-Sr. Retailers visit NCR, make gifts for homes

Junior-Senior Retailers had a total of 71 members who were actively involved in many group projects and activities. As a group, they visited the National Cash Register Company in Dayton, Ohio. Throughout the year they attended regional, state, and national conventions. Jesse Lear received the honor of being named Assistant East-Regional vice-president in the state election.

At home, the club presented gifts to Friendship Home, Friend's Fellowship Community, and Jenkins Home.

The club promotes an understanding and appreciation of the free enterprise system in America.

Junior Retailer's officers were Jesse Lear, president; Linda Hensley, vice-president; and Sandy Julien, secretary. Senior Retailers elected Steve Hughes as president, Joyce Miller as vice-president and Cheryl McClure as treasurer. Mr. Claude Grove serves as a sponsor of both organizations.

Future Farmers engage in competitive contests

The first Monday of every month brings exciting plans and activities for Future Farmers. This year, a Battle of the Bands was sponsored by FFA to raise funds for the soldiers in Viet Nam. Competitive contests, including crop judging, involved club members throughout the year.

The Future Farmers of Richmond were proud to send two members to Mexico this past summer. Winfred Wilson and Bill Bailey were the two local members out of twenty-one chosen to represent over 10,000 Indiana Future Farmers. The trip provided an opportunity to learn about farm management in Mexico.

Future Farmers include students interested in agricultural leadership, cooperation, and citizenship.

Steve Buckland, vice-president, Larry Newton, secretary, Rick Holmes, Bob Filby, and Bill Bailey proved themselves responsible officers under president Winifred Wilson and Mr. Nicholas Druley, adviser.

Darrell Stevenson, Winifred Wilson, and Bob Foust learn the parts of a lawn mower engine. They learn that safety is important in the operation of lawn mowers.

Mr. Druley demonstrates and explains the importance of fire extinguishers to FFA members.

Social Studies Forum holds bi-annual straw vote

The bi-annual straw vote, a Mardi Gras booth, foreign student gatherings, and interesting speakers kept Social Studies Forum busy throughout the year.

Social Studies Forum increases interest and knowledge in social science. The club planned its programs to better acquaint its members with international affairs of the United States.

Mrs. Marguerite Strahan, sponsor of Social Studies Forum, with the help of three seniors assumed the leadership of the club. They were Steve Bowen, president; Jim Jarecki, vice-president; Cheryl Eilar, secretary.

French Club entertained by French speakers

Gary Krieder, president, and Peggy Luken use map of France in French Club discussion.

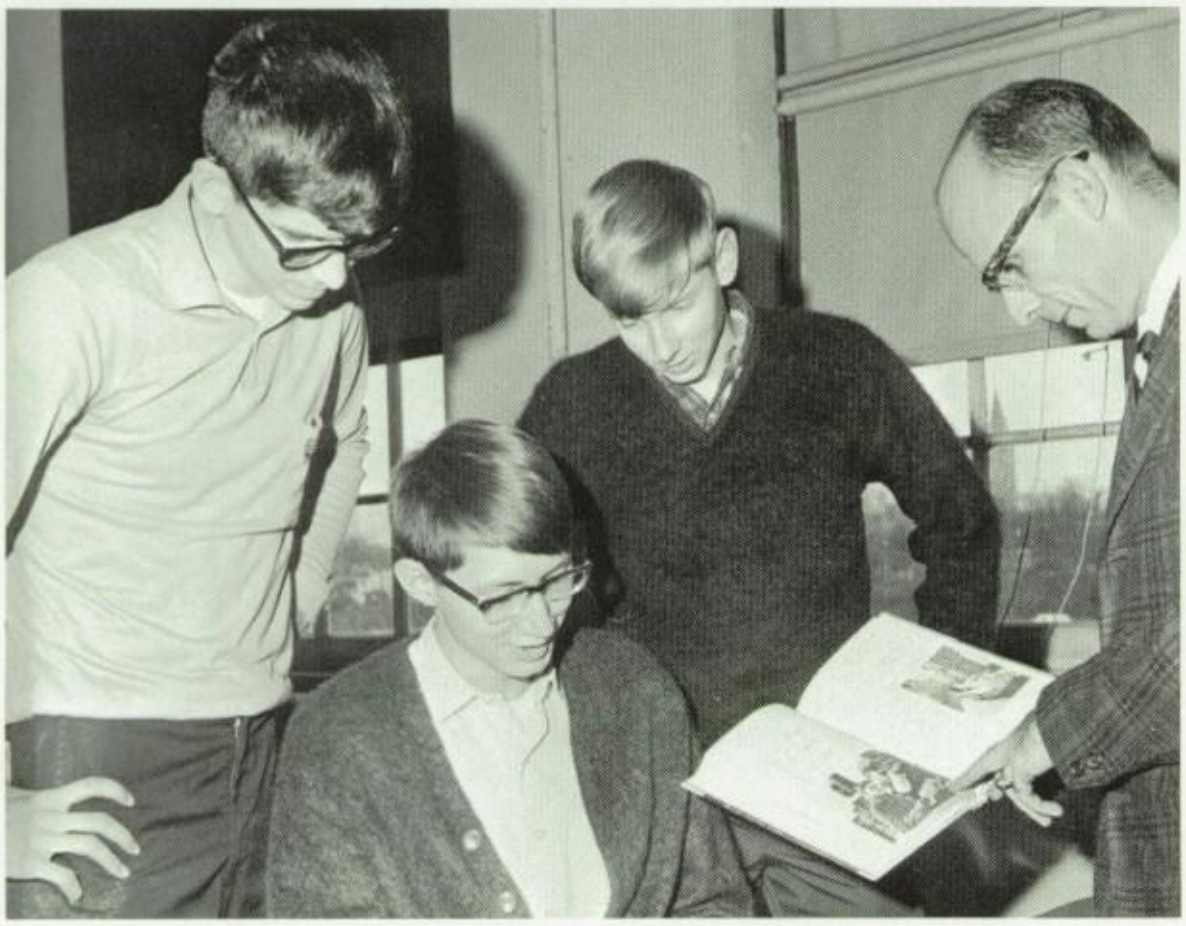
Est-ce vous etes un membre du Cercle Francais? Are you a member of French Club?

French Club was entertained this year by several speakers, including a French native. Members also viewed films of France. Members added a French touch to the Mardi Gras with a booth entitled "La Belle Equipe."

French Club revealed French culture and civilization to its members. At meetings, members were required to speak only French. This enabled them to better speak and understand the French language.

The officers included Gary Kreider, president; Fran Slagle, vice-president; Marcia Collins, secretary; Peggy Luken, treasurer; and Margie Fueglein, sergeant-at-arms. The sponsors of French Club were Mr. Gordon Pipes, Mr. Jerold Moore, and Mrs. Ellen Kaiper.

German language practiced by German Club



Actung! Sprechen Sie Deutsch? Attention! Do you speak German? The German touch, seen at Homecoming and Mardi Gras, was provided by the club.

German Club's goal is to teach students more about the culture and background of Germany. It also gives the members a chance to speak German in an informal manner.

Officers were Bruce Churton, president; Mark Stolle, vice-president; Debra Roach, program director; and Mary Richert, sergeant-at-arms. Sponsor of the club is Mr. Ahmad Alasti, who is a native of Iran.

Ecce! Latina verbum est! Attention! Latin is the word! Richmond's Junior Classical League was represented at the State Convention. They featured a "Roman Water Jar Carrier Dance."

The league sponsored a Roman banquet and participated in a drive for a stamp commemorating the Junior Classical League. The club took part in the Homecoming Parade and Mardi Gras.

This year the club promoted a scholarship fund for prospective Latin teachers graduating from R.H.S.

In Junior Classical League, students are encouraged to have greater interest and appreciation of the languages, literature and culture of ancient Rome.

Officers of Junior Classical League were Ralph S. Conti, president; Forrest Rogers, vice-president; Mary Ann Rodich, secretary; and Richard Baier, treasurer. Mrs. Buroker was sponsor of the club.

DDT's lead 601 Y-Teen girls

Paula Kraus, Suzy Stragand, Sandy McGuire, Phyllis McDowell, Lou Ann Mueller, Gwen Schroeder, and Fran Slagle pose after annual Y-Teen Cabinet membership assembly.

Cindy Miller and Judy Lasky put finishing touches on cookies prepared for teachers in honor of one of the many Faculty Appreciation Days sponsored by Y-Teen Cabinet.

Y-Teen Goals:
. . . to grow as a person;
. . . to grow in friendship with people of all races, religions, and nationalities;
. . . to grow in the knowledge and love of God.

These goals are pursued by the Y-Teen Cabinet (the Definitely Devilish Twenty) and by 601 girls in nineteen Y-Teen groups at R.H.S.

From group meetings to the Easter Hat Party, the Y-Teen spirit was felt throughout the school and community. Y-Teen groups participated in Candlelight Recognition, Miniature Conference, World Fellowship, Nut Sale, Mardi Gras, Hanging of the Greens, Dad 'n Daughter Dinner, Easter Hat Party, and numerous service projects for the community and lands overseas. On October 24, 1966, twenty-nine Y-Teens departed on a two-day sightseeing trip of Lincoln County in Missouri.

The Y-Teen Cabinet, who serve as co-ordinators of group activities, was also busy during the year. The annual Root Beer Blast and the initiation of Faculty Appreciation Day service projects highlighted the activities of Cabinet during the 1966-67 school year.

During a Y-Teen meeting, Suzy Stragand displays her World Fellowship bank.

Athletes engage in nine sports

Pep sessions, Coach Baumgartner's words of advice on student spirit, the momentum of a cheering student body at a sports event, athletes fighting their way to victory, the victory bell's ring—these were the 1967 signs of the on-rush of student spirit and the determination exercised by all athletic participants at Richmond High School.

The nine-sport program was managed by Mr. Virgil Little, athletic director. Nineteen coaches and over 200 athletes participated in the varsity programs of football, basketball, cross country, wrestling, swimming, track, baseball, golf, and tennis, and in the intramural and GAA programs of archery, basketball, swimming, track, and gymnastics.

New to the athletic program this year was the varsity sport of swimming. The installment of this sport into the RHS sports program marks the first program of its kind at Richmond High School.

Football and basketball, which provide the income for the total sports program, were not deficient in producing crowd thrills and excellent seasons.

The minor sports are not to be overlooked—these sports take just as much determination, will-power, and athletic prowess as any of the major sports. While these sports were not as well attended as the major sports, it was not forgotten that these boys were Devils and always fought to win for Richmond High School.

The sports program is the focal point upon which student spirit is centered. The athletes and the student body realized that their duty was to prove that the RHS spirit was alive and burning in athletics—and win, lose, or draw, Red Devil participants and spectators were Devils all the way.

Minor sports require as much athletic ability as major sports. John Dingle takes to the courts in warm weather to practice tennis. He knows practice makes a good netter.

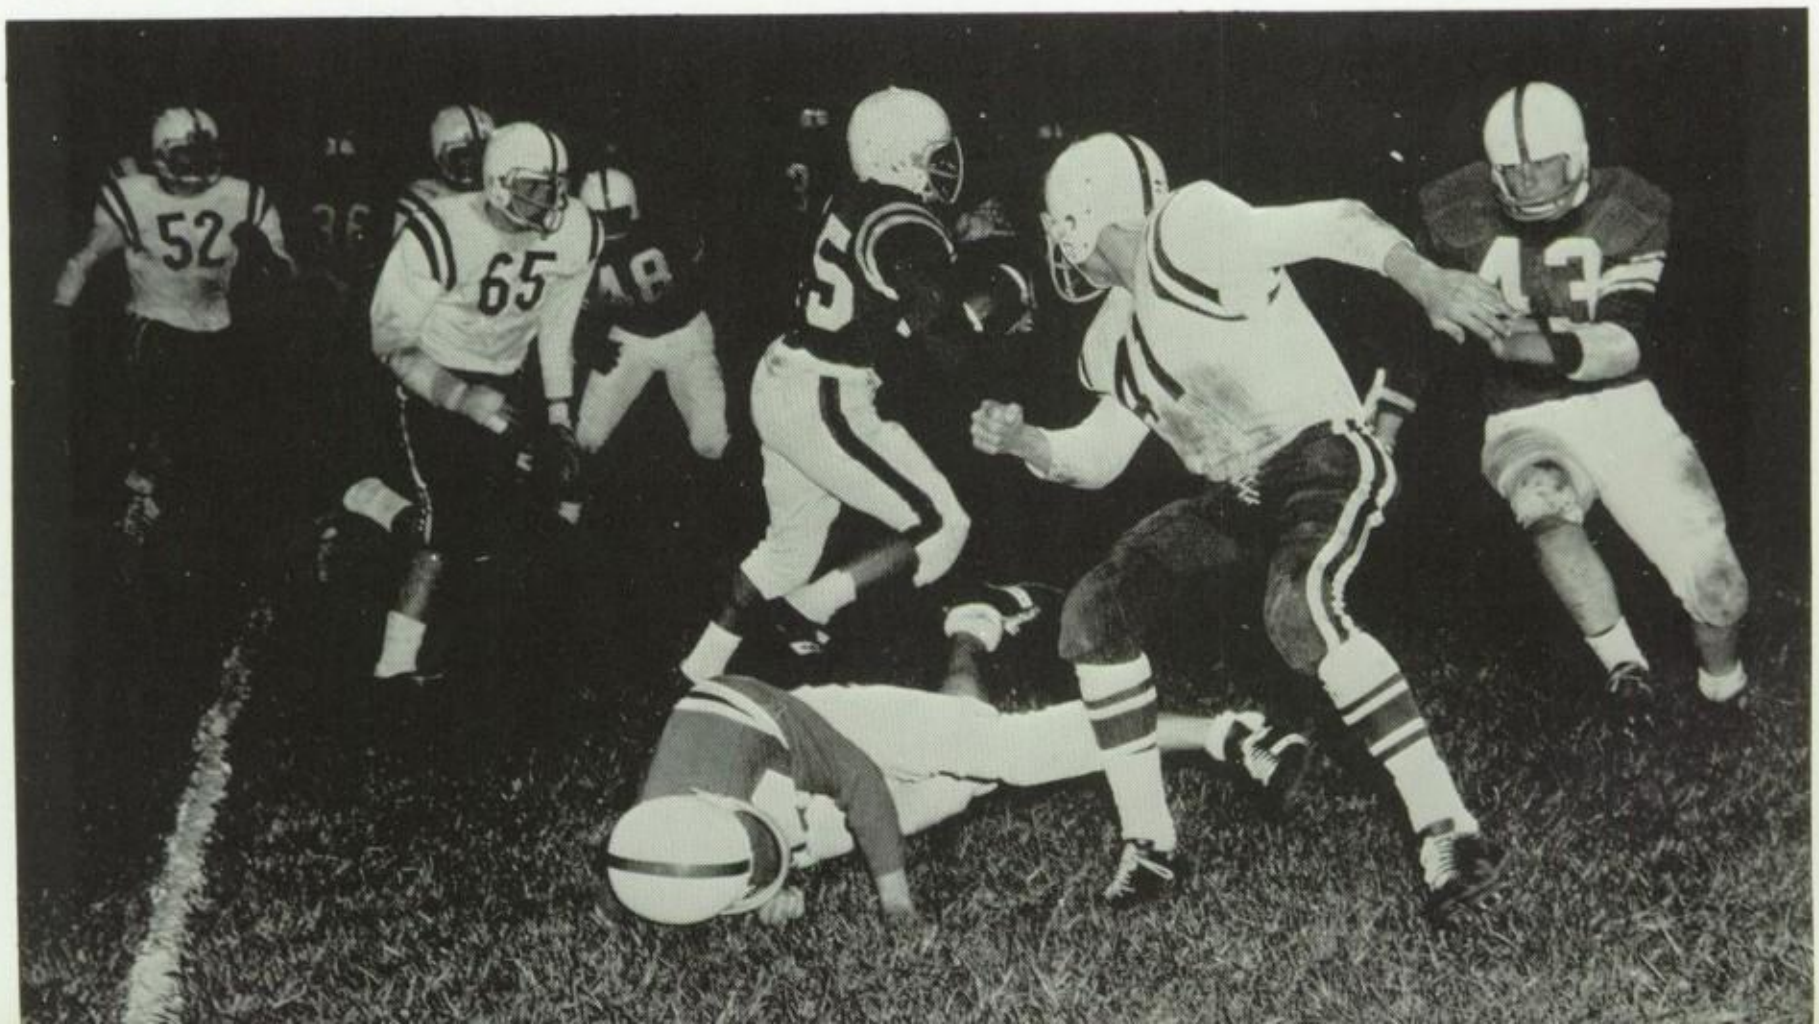
Gridders end season with

Bobby Ward (25) leading ground gainer, finds a big hole in the Chaminade defense as he picks up a block by Cary Miller (43) to make it a long gainer.



6-3-1 record, 4th in conference

"Yeah, hike" was the starting count of many RHS plays during the 1966 football season. This year the gridders compiled a 6-3-1 record, losing to Lafayette, South Bend St. Joe, and Anderson, and tieing with Marion.

With a demanding in and out-conference schedule, RHS attained a fourth rating in the North Central Conference.

Ten seniors were nominated to the All-Conference Team. They were Greg Friend, end; Cary Miller, tackle; Jay Balestrieri, center; Bobby Ward, halfback; Willie Stubbs, end; Ron Hill, tackle; Dan Skethway, middle guard; Tim Tyler, linebacker; Dale Gordon, cornerbacker; and Mike Lafuze, punter. Greg Friend was named all-state conference end by the North Central Conference.

The "star system" provided players with an incentive to play better football. Stars were awarded the gridders for six different feats: blocking of a kick, covering fumbles, safety creation, a tackle inside the 20 yard line on kick-offs, pass interception, and yardage gains. Team members receiving the most stars were Ron Hill and Gary Belcher, nine stars each, and Tim Tyler with ten stars.

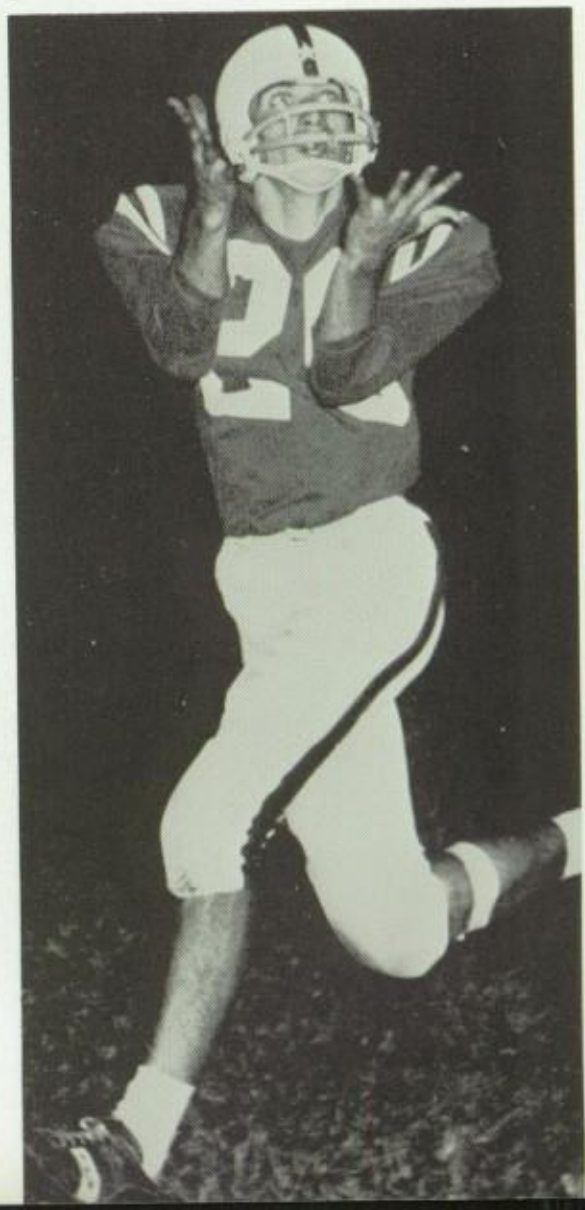
A big pile-up begins when Willie Stubbs (32) catches a long pass to set up a touchdown against Muncie Central in the first Jamboree at RHS.

Greg Friend named all-state end

Halfback Dale Gordon (24) tries to get away from the Lafayette defense on an end sweep.

Off and running Greg Friend, (26), top scorer, catches one of his eleven touchdown passes.



Reserves hold opponents scoreless in six games

'B' football team finished a successful season with six victories and one loss. The season was opened with a defeat to Hamilton Garfield, 16-2. The 'B' team revenged its first defeat to Hamilton Garfield with a 19-0 victory on November 30.

Another key encounter during the season was with Hamilton Taft, where the reserves copped another victory scoring 22-0. Despite the one defeat of the season, the Imps went in for six straight victories in which their opponents remained scoreless. The season ended with a 14-0 victory over Muncie Central.

With a strong leading defense, the 'B' team will surely be a good contribution to next year's varsity team.

Season 4-2

RHS Harriers ended their cross country season with four wins and two losses in dual meet records. In addition to regular season meets, the Devils placed fifth out of fifteen teams in the Southport Invitational. Thinlies placed fourth with 124 points in the NCC meet.

Indiana High School Athletic Association sectional title was won for the third straight year by Coach Charles Hilton's varsity. Devils took first place with a "low" score of 54 points. RHS thinlies placed eleventh in the IHSAA regional.

Coaches head teams; cheerleaders rouse gusto

Imp cheerleaders include Vicki Kaler, Mary Ellen Doddridge, and Sylvia Ferrell.

Richmond High School students can be proud of the fine coaching staff and cheerleaders available. Nineteen coaches prepare over 200 boys participating in athletics for the rigors of individual and team competition. Four varsity and three B team cheerleaders spend long hours preparing cheers that would rouse within Richmond fans a fighting spirit.

Enthusiasm, training, and drive proved to be the necessary qualities for both the coaches and cheerleaders —with this, the teams have proven to be some of the best in the state.

Varsity cheerleaders rousing gusto at a pep session are Rae Ferriell, Suzanne Mull, Cindy Berry, and Betty Long.

Betty Long gives the victory bell a thrust after a Devil victory.

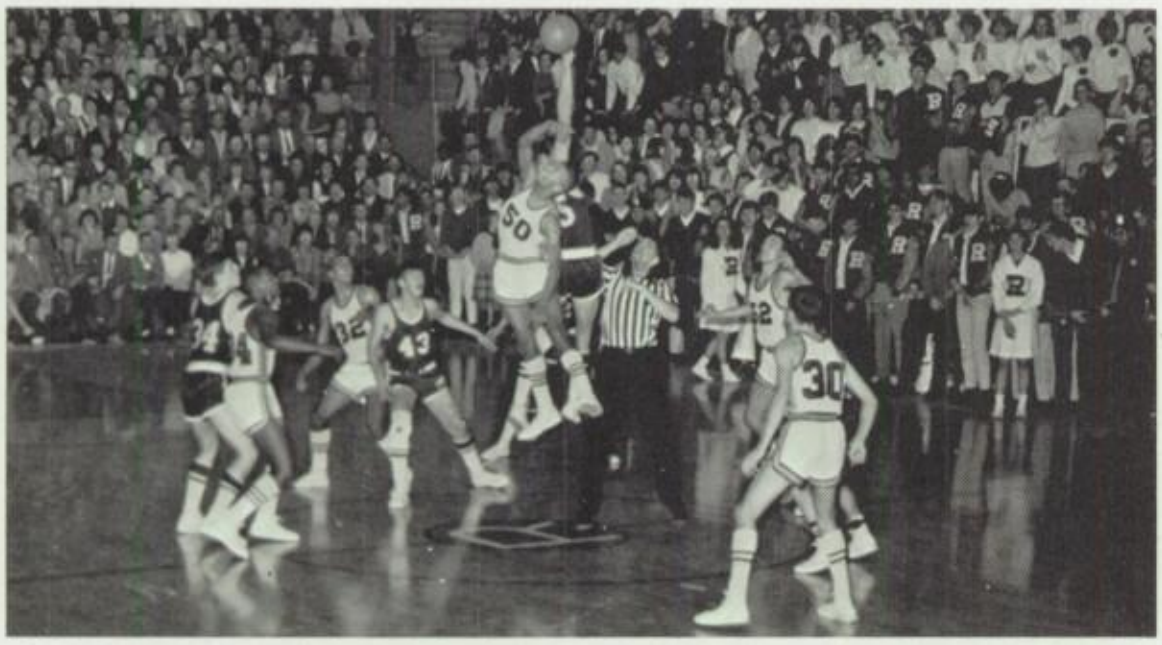
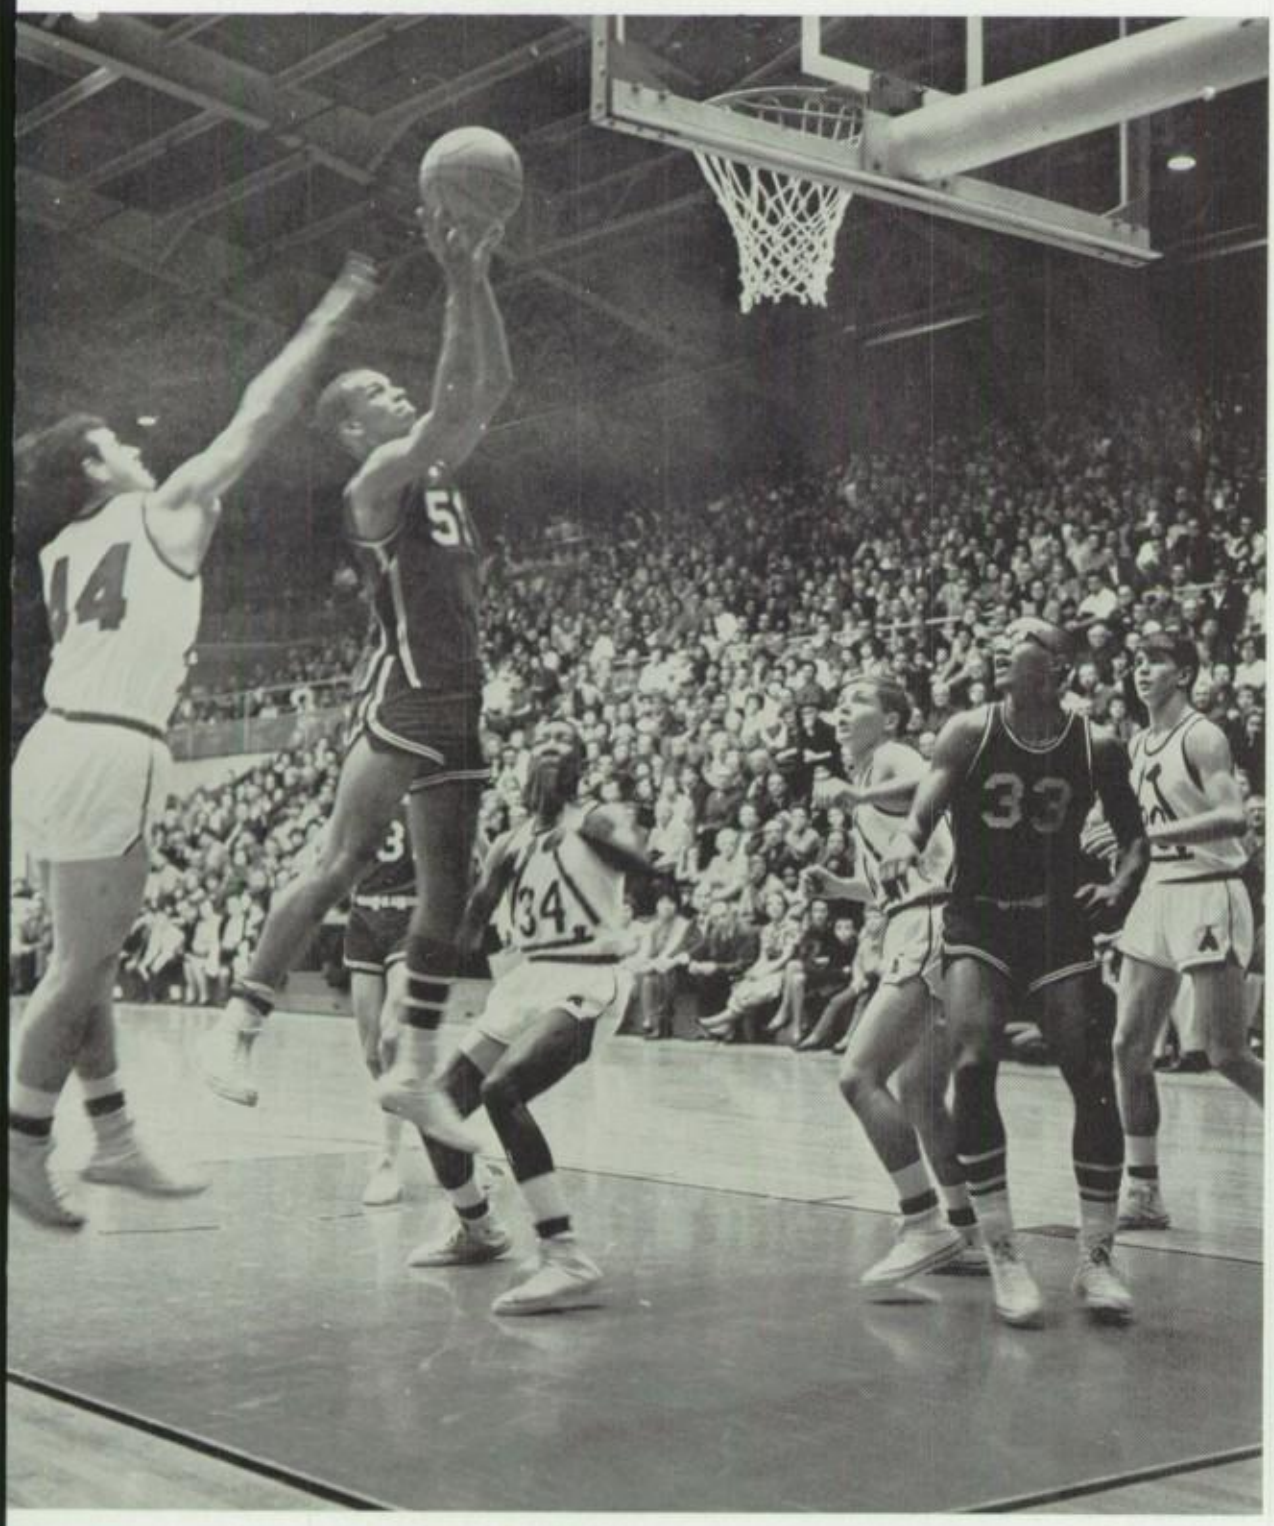
record since '53, tie for third place in NCC



Myron Chenault (50) reaches high for the jump ball, but is defeated in the attempt.

Willie Stubbs (33) prepares to rebound as Myron Chenault (51) makes a jump shot.



With six senior starters on this year's basketball squad, the team compiled a 20-5 season record. Coach Richard Baumgartner built a winning squad that tied for third place in the NCC and was regional runner-up. RHS roundballers took sectional honors by defeating Cambridge City 52-48. Although RHS succumbed to Lafayette Jeff, it took the Broncos two overtimes to defeat the Devils.

This year's senior sextet was particularly outstanding in that each was nominated to membership on either the North Central Conference team, all sectional or all-regional squads. Willie Stubbs, leading scorer, and Jim Risinger, second in the scoring column, were chosen as members of the NCC team. Willie Stubbs was also nominated for the sectional first team and regional second team, as well as winning the team award for captain and most valuable player.

Merrill Skinner was the leading rebounder and best free-throw shooter and was placed on the first all-regional team. Greg Friend received an honorable mention in the NCC, while Myron Chenault placed on the all-sectional and all-regional first teams.

Coach Dick Baumgartner leaves his seat to follow the game's action.

Top: Tim Conniff dives with the greatest of ease while performing a somersault.

Bottom: Tim O'Maley uses the butterfly stroke in competition at a team swim meet.

At the first swimming meet, Steve Bowen attempts to place in the breaststroke.

New to the athletic program this year was the varsity sport of swimming. Even with inexperience, the squad finished with three wins and six losses for the season. Richmond's tankmen finished fifth in the North Central Conference and placed second with 52 points in the Anderson 3-way meet. Anderson garnered 69 points, while third place Marion came away with 47 points.

Swim squad used the YMCA pool each evening after school throughout the season.

Coach Tony Tiano cited J. C. Beck, Jim Good, Ted Riley, Curt Marsh, and Mark Bailey as having made outstanding contributions to the team during the season. This year's inexperience can be chalked up as making way for a strong swimming team next season.

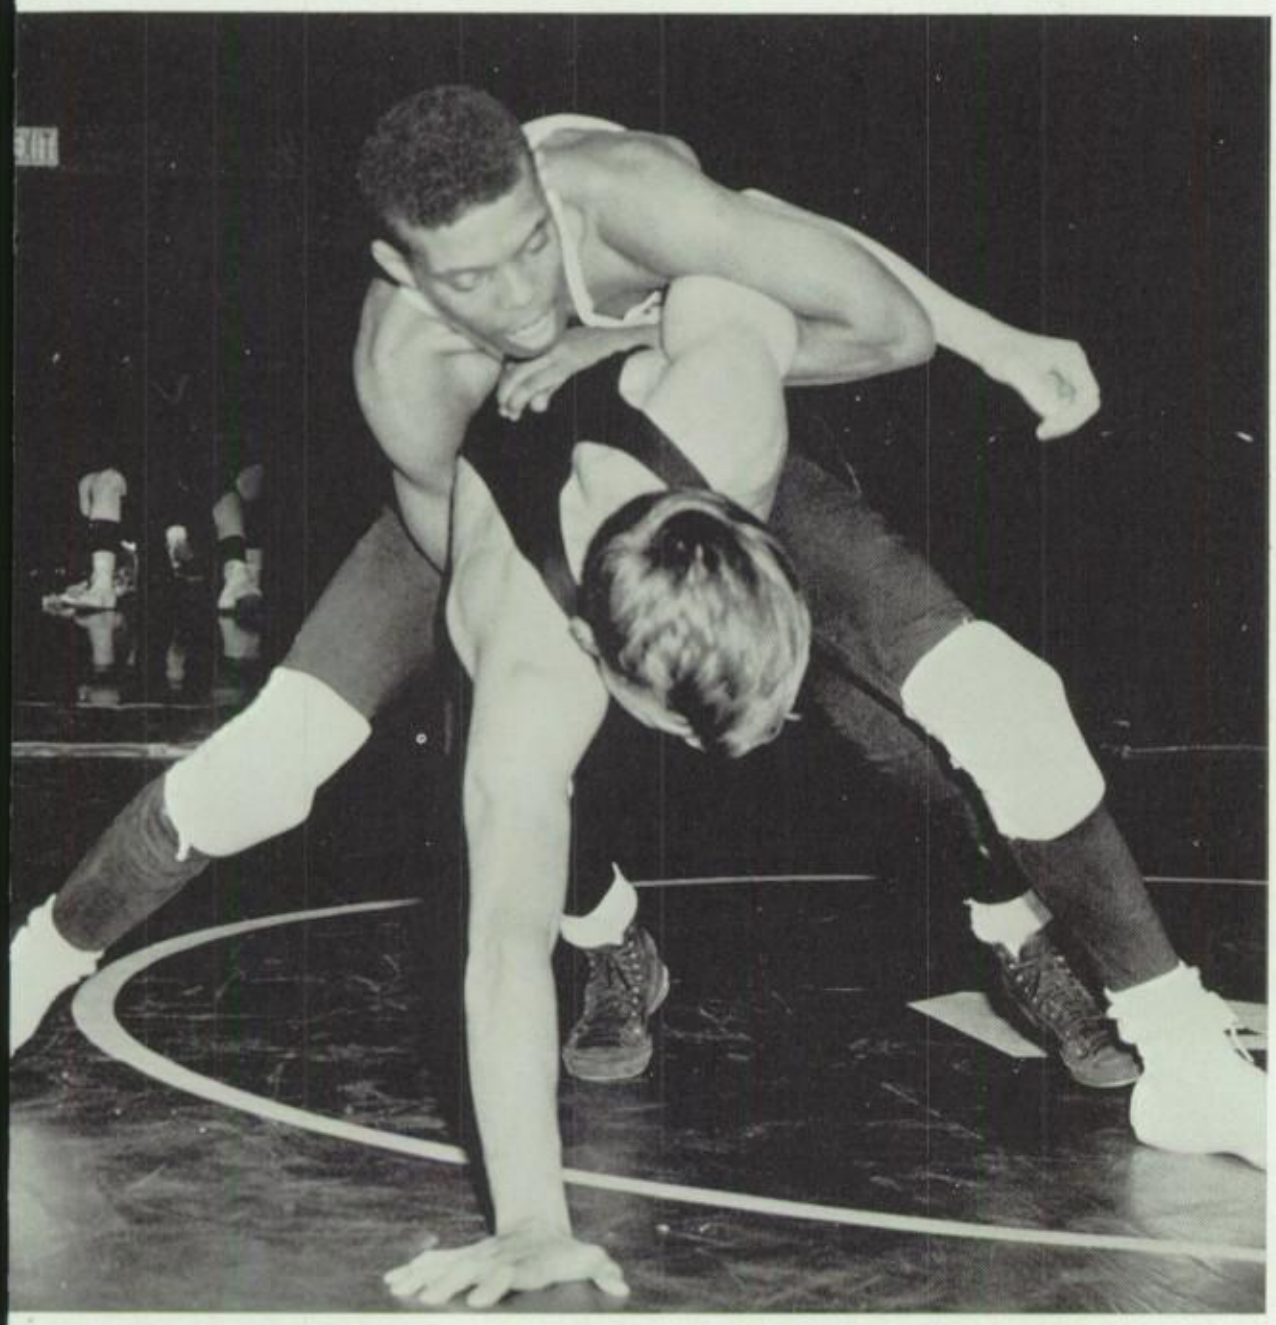
Grapplers compile 6-4-1 record, win sectional



Wrestling is fast becoming an exciting and challenging sport. Coach Byron Klute's grapplers compiled a record of six wins, four defeats, and one tie. The squad was led by Walter Robinson with an 18-4 record.

Robinson won the North Central Conference championship—previously, he placed second during his sophomore and junior years. Ore Hall led the juniors with an 18-4 season record. He also captured team captain honors.

Richmond wrestlers faced many strong wrestling schools during the season. Devils met four undefeated schools during the regular dual meet season.

At New Castle, the Devils captured their third consecutive sectional title, while placing sixth among 21 teams. At the Indianapolis Regional, the grapplers placed third, finishing only one point out of second place.

This year's "B" team was coached by Mr. Troy Ingram. "B" team compiled a 3-8 record this season.

Intramurals include three sports

Intramurals provided students with an opportunity for participation in a non-varsity sport.

Fourteen basketball teams played in a 15-week season of intramural basketball. The championship was captained by Mark Gildenhar's team.

Fall intramural bowling provided activity for ten boys' teams and ten girls' teams. Spring bowling was made up of ten mixed teams. Winning teams were awarded trophies for outstanding intramural accomplishment.

A new intramural physical fitness program was started this spring. Participants hoped to develop athletic strength and stamina through competition in a track program.

GAA was organized as a club this year. Fifty girls participated actively, while 250 engaged competitively through GAA.

GAA boasts nine sports

Girls Athletic Association (GAA) was first formed this year as an organized body.

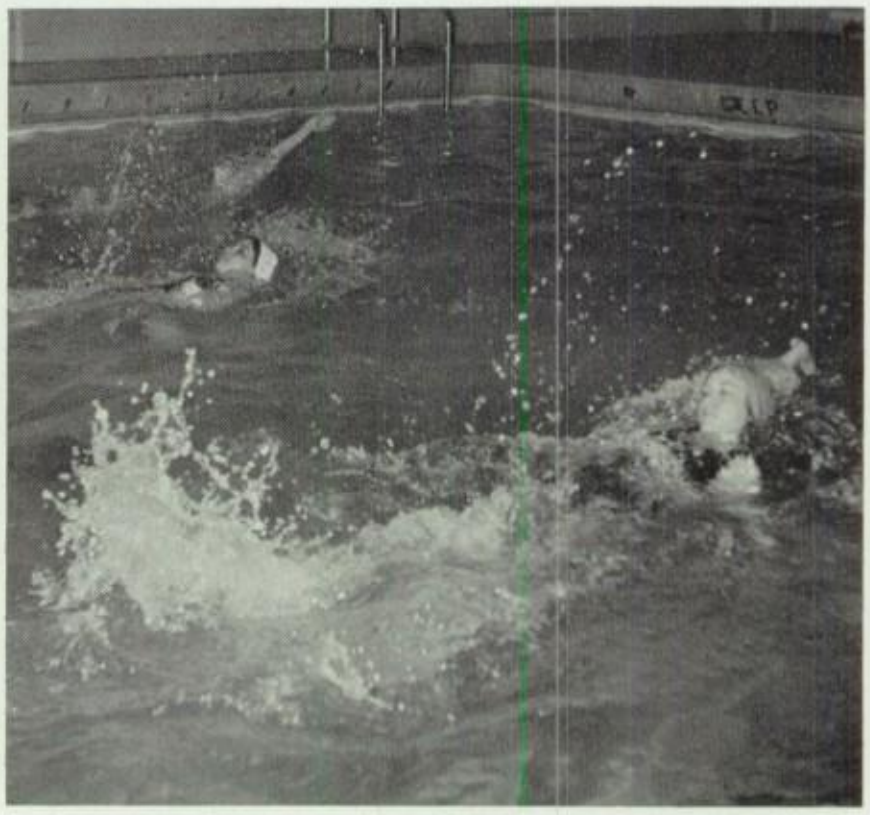
GAA is a program that provides an opportunity for girls to participate in various sports such as swimming, basketball, and archery.

This year GAA initiated a program, "Fitness and Femininity," designed to raise funds for the club. On March 30, GAA brought Muriel Grossfeld, Olympic gymnast, for a Civic Hall performance. Proceeds were used to expand the GAA program.

GAA was led by Carol Adney, president; Brenda Amburgey and Susan Shields, vice-pres.; Gwen Schroeder, secretary; and Yvona Hollingsworth, statistician.

Nilah Logan looks for a way out from Shawnee guards. GAA won with a 36-22 score.

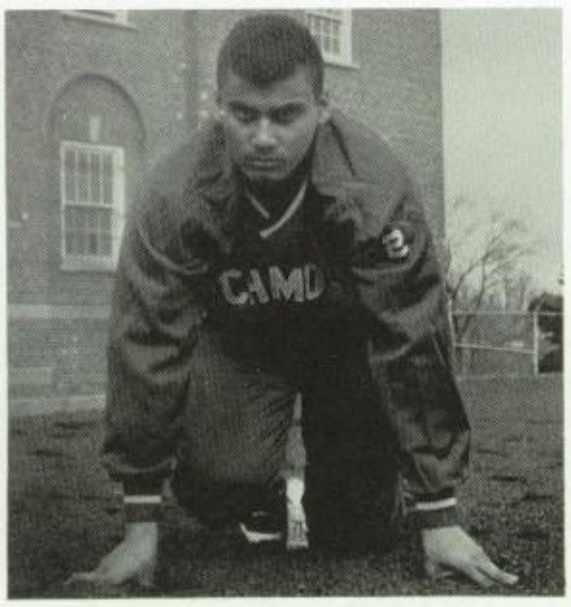
GAA swimmers held practices at the YWCA. Betty Long practices the backstroke.



Cindermen gain backbone from nine lettermen

Top sprinters include Joe Clinkenbeard, Jerry Campbell, Eugene Mitchell, Joe Hair, Bob Warfel, Mike Koontz, and Mike Sherrow.

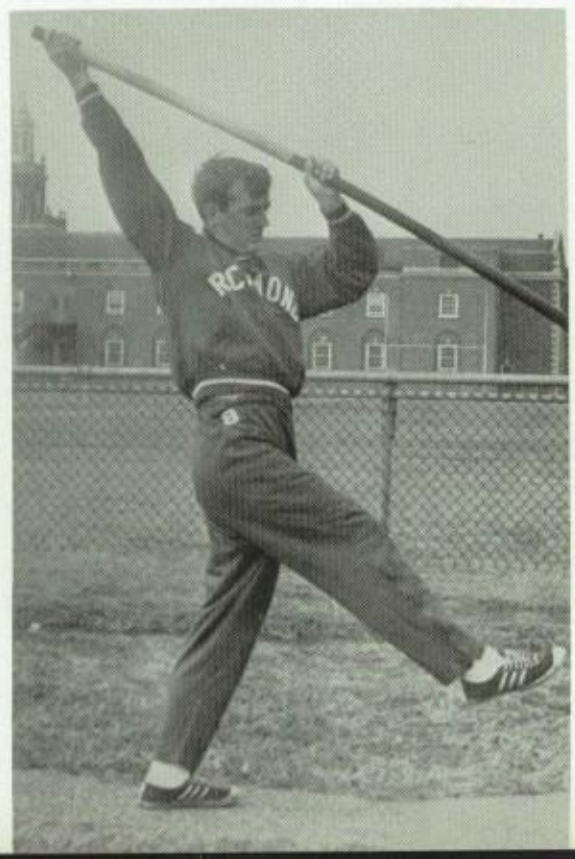
Curt Dillman and Mike LaFuze glide effortlessly over the first low hurdle.



Grim determination in the starting gate readies relay-man Willis Pennington.

Shotputter Steve Helmich thrusts the steel shot into the open field.

Jim McDaniel, who holds the RHS pole vault record of 13-2, tests a pole.



This year's track team gained strength and backbone from nine returning lettermen. Drawing from such experienced runners as Greg Friend, Mike LaFuze, and Jim McDaniel (three-year letterman), Jim Garrett (sectional record holder), and Max Henry (outstanding sprinter), the cindermen seemed to have an upper hand in many meets.

Track squad was strongest in the pole vault, sprints, hurdles, mile, half-mile, and relays.

Baseball team opened its 1967 season March 30 at Municipal Stadium against Eaton's varsity squad. Coach Mike Rodich had nine returning lettermen. Ted Thiede, Dale Gordon, Dick Lee, Mike Soper, Lee Ferrell, Fred Killion, Bob Coddington, Scott Ryder, and Sonny Lynch provided the beginnings of a strong varsity.

Stickmen participated in 18 games, seven of which were NCC games. Baseball sectional was held the first week in June.

"I'm safe by a mile," says Dick Lee to Scott Ryder, who put the leather on him.

RHS golf team had four returning lettermen from last year. These four, Mark Gildenhar, John Clements, Tom Bartel, and Mark Hamner, had considerable match and medal play experience that made them excellent competitors. Thus, they provided Coach Richard Wright with a strong nucleus for the thirteen season matches.

With the strong players up from the "B" squad plus some promising sophomores, the 1967 golf team should prove to be a winning team.

Another of the spring sports at Richmond High School is tennis. As soon as spring arrived, twenty-one netters began practice for the grueling matches of the season. This year's squad participated in sixteen matches and one invitational tournament.

John Dingle and Tim Reynolds, returning lettermen, led the netters during the season. Last year, John Dingle was awarded an honorable mention in the North Central Conference. The 1966 squad placed second in the Burris tourney, fifth in the NCC, and compiled a 9-4 season record.

John Dingle has to reach to slam one back over the Glen Miller nets.

Students choose from 60 subjects

Through study in many fields, each Richmond High School student seeks to prepare to face life with a richer understanding and a will to succeed. A student can begin training for a profession of his choice by choosing from over sixty subjects in ten curriculums. These curriculums include General, Academic, Bookkeeping, Stenographic, General Business, Home Economics, Industrial Arts, Drafting, Distributive Education, and Vocational Agriculture.

Richmond High School can boast of an able faculty and administration. Over 75 per cent of the faculty have master's degrees. A combination of faculty skill and knowledge plus an informal teacher-student relationship afford RHS students the opportunity to gain a well-rounded education.

This year, for the first time, report cards and semester schedules were run off by computer. The computer, which is nicknamed "Big Mike," is owned by the First National Bank. Computerized programming because of its speed and efficiency is looked upon as a boost for academic excellence at Richmond High School.

All RHS students remember the long hours spent on a term paper, that hour's struggle on a semester exam, a wrong line drawn on an art project, or the wrong ingredients put in a cake —but through academic successes and defeats, the RHS spirit influences students to work hard to achieve their desired goal in life.

RHS has academically ranked as one of the highest schools in Indiana. Eric Van Vleet is hard at work in the library preparing for his next day's classes.

Three administrators head community schools

Mr. Paul C. Garrison, superintendent

Three school administrators are directly responsible for the functioning of the school system in Richmond. Mr. Paul C. Garrison, Dr. Kenneth Koger, and Mr. Frederick Goodnight serve as co-ordinators for the school community.

For the past twenty years, Mr. Paul C. Garrison, superintendent of schools, has served as chief executive officer of the Board of Education. His duties are to execute the policies and rules decided upon by the school board. Mr. Garrison received his B.S. degree in education from Oakland City College and his M.S. degree from Indiana University in school administration.

As assistant superintendent of schools, Dr. Kenneth Koger serves as co-ordinator of certified personnel employment, bus transportation, educational public relations, and publications. Dr. Koger received his B.S. from Ohio University school administration and educational psychology.

As the new director of secondary education, Mr. Frederick Goodnight is in charge of curriculum development and supervision. He received his B.S. and M.S. from Indiana University.

Phillips, director of elementary education; Miss Alice Theobald, elementary education consultant; Mrs. Joanna Prater, speech and hearing therapist; Mrs. Betty Linville, speech and hearing therapist; Miss Leone Gatwood, director of school libraries; Mr. Robert Wyatt, supervisor of school attendance. Back row: Mr. Robert Lindsey, director of industrial and vocational education; Mr. Edward Loar, art supervisor; Mr. Glenn Johnston, music supervisor; Mr. Donald Lindley, director of special education; Mr. J. D. Wickersham, audio-visual supervisor.

Secondary supervisors lead education departments

Administrators enter the Richmond Community Schools Administration Building daily to carry on important school programs.

Standing at the main desk in the administration building are Mr. Richard Tiernan, supervisor of physical education, health and safety, and Mrs. Jane Finch, secretary.

City school board maintains educational needs

Mr. Augustus G. Luken died September 25, 1966. Before his death, he served as president of the Richmond Community School Board. Mr. Luken's strong interest and devotion to the Richmond Community School system will long be remembered.

Each month the Richmond Community Schools Board of Education meets bi-weekly on Wednesday to determine and approve school policies, recommendations, budgets, and employment in the school system. Seven laymen comprise the school board. School board meetings are open to the public and provide a chance to see administration in action.

The Pierian would like to pay special tribute to Mr. Augustus Luken, a member of the Richmond Community Board of Education, who died September 25, 1966. At the time of his death he was serving a term as president of the board. Mr. Luken had been a member of the board since 1963, and he helped initiate the last building addition of the Senior High School. His death was felt deeply by all those associated with school administration.

Mr. Harold Hanes, principal

Mr. Harold Hanes checks his files on curriculum information.

Mr. Harold Hanes, Mr. Ivan Wagner, and Mr. Donald Mays discuss grade card reports before they are sent to the Second National Bank for processing.

Mr. Harold B. Hanes, a familiar face to all at RHS, serves as principal. Mr. Hanes is no stranger to administrative work, as he served as executive vice-principal at RHS last year.

As principal, he promotes a close relationship between students and faculty and seeks to maintain Richmond High School as a top-rate member of the North Central Conference of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Mr. Hanes is a graduate of Purdue University and received his bachelor of science and master of science degrees in physical education and school administration.

Staff members counsel, schedule, co-ordinate

Mr. Donald Mays, director of pupil personnel

Mr. Ivan Wagner, executive vice-principal

Mr. Virgil C. Little, athletic director

Three new faces were added to the high school administrative staff to assist with the operation of RHS this year.

Executive vice-principal, Mr. Ivan Wagner is responsible for class schedules and arrangements, college transcripts, recommendations, and the general administration of the school. He received his B.S. and M.A. degrees in physical education and school administration from Ball State University.

Mr. Donald Mays, vice-principal and director of pupil personnel, is co-ordinator of the guidance and counseling services. He directs club programs and extra-curricular activities. He received his B.S. in business education and social studies and his M.A. in guidance from Ball State University.

Mr. Virgil C. Little is the athletic director. His job is to co-ordinate the athletic program of the Richmond community schools. He received his B.S. degree in science from Northern Illinois University and his M.S. degree in school administration from Purdue.

Secretaries, school nurse lend helping hand

Mrs. Lois Foster

Mrs. Virginia Retz

Mrs. Gloria Maurer

Mrs. Edith Snyder

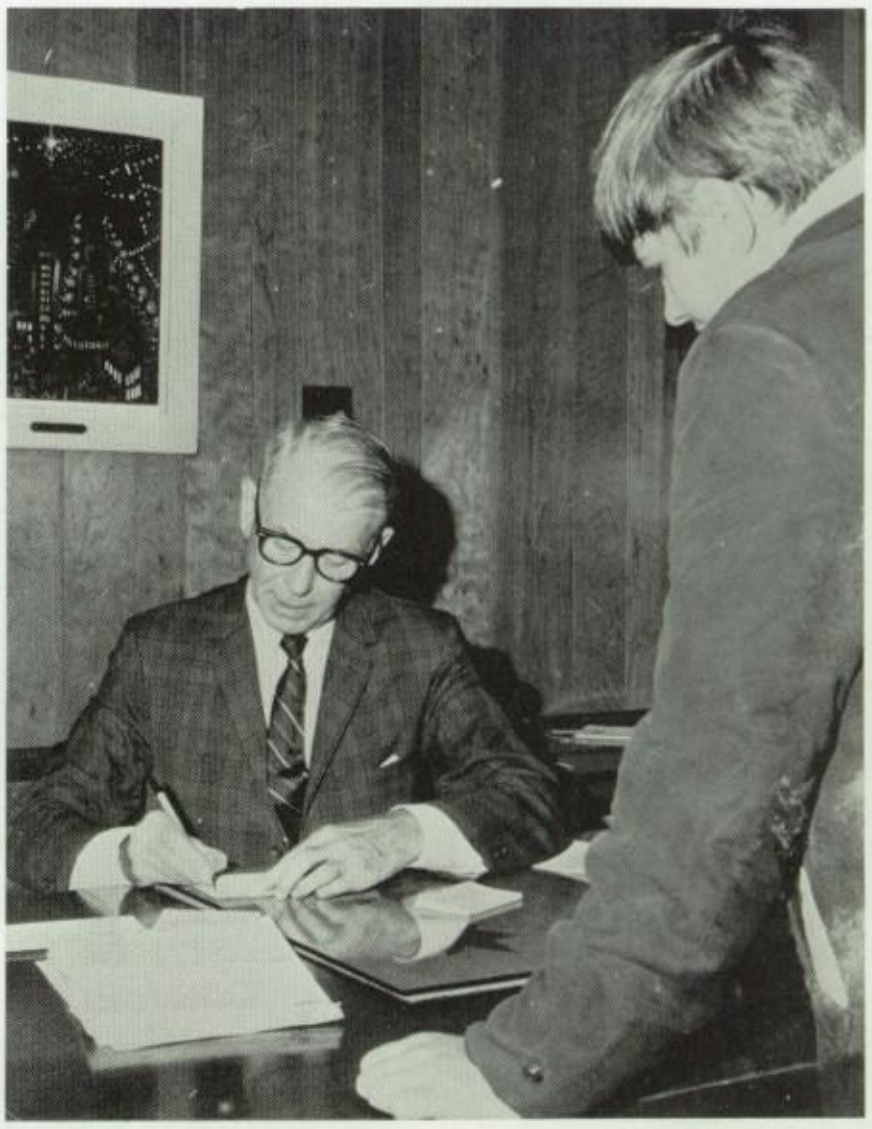
The Secretaries and school nurse perform important duties for the students and administrators throughout the school year.

The secretaries, along with their secretarial duties, also lend a helping hand and an open ear to the problems and needs of students. Each day finds them giving advice, distributing paper clips, band-aids, and books and remembering hundreds of memos. Without their hard work, the school would be unable to function efficiently.

Mrs. Charles Thomas assumed the responsibility of school nurse. She could be found in the nurse's room daily from 10 to 12 noon ready for service to students. Mrs. Thomas supervised the tuberculin testing and the vision tests administered to high school students in the fall.

Mrs. Nazoma Statzer

Diana Johnson seems to enjoy having her temperature taken by Mrs. Charles Thomas school nurse. Diana Johnson works in the attendance office during home room.



Advising students and issuing passes are some of the tasks performed by Mr. Richard Coons.

Miss Janet Turpin is available daily for assistance to girls. She issues a pass to Jane Hankinson.

Deans assist in daily attendance, pupil guidance

Two deans, Mr. Richard Coons and Miss Janet Turpin, serve as direct contacts between the student body and the administrative personnel. Each dean is directly responsible for the daily attendance of both boys and girls and the disciplinary action of students. Deans are also available to aid a student in the understanding of himself and his problems.

Mr. Richard Coons, vice-principal and dean of boys, has served as an administrative head at Richmond High School for 14 years. Mr. Coons was graduated from Earlham College with an A.B. degree in history. He received his M.A. degree from Columbia University.

Miss Janet Turpin assumed the duties as new dean of girls at the beginning of the 1966-67 school year. Miss Turpin received her B.S. degree and her M.S. degree in education from Indiana University.

Library provides store of knowledge for students

Library is the answer to research problems of students. Besides providing a center for research, it supplies pleasure reading and an atmosphere of study for 500-2000 pupils each week.

Library stays up-to-date by subscribing to eight newspapers and over 155 periodicals. To increase the students' facilities, it purchases over 900 books each year. This, plus over 1300 books and reference materials, creates a library that is highly adequate.

Library Science is the library course offered to those individuals interested in library work.

Mrs. Johanna Jelly, library clerk, is shown making out requisition slips for new library books. She is new to the library staff this year.

Mrs. Eula Crain and Mrs. Virginia Garner aid students with library material.

science credit in aeronautical flying class

In the fast-moving world of today, science is invaluable. It determines political and social life, besides serving as a vocation.

A new addition to the science curriculum this year is the distinction between "a" and "b" sciences. While both are academic, "a" courses are more intensive to give the students a better background for further study. Other introductions to the science department include "g" courses and advanced courses in biology, chemistry, and physics.

Biology courses study various forms and environments of life. Chemistry provides the student with an understanding of chemical properties and their behavior. Physics stresses the analysis and development of concepts of physics.

Physical science provides a brief introduction to ideas studied in the higher sciences. Earth science offers an intensive study of geology, astronomy, and meteorology.

Fourteen students participated in the flying class last summer sponsored by the East-Richmond Airport and the high school.

Four languages provide key to communication;

Latin students learn much about Roman civilization. Myrna Scott refers to a map depicting the Roman Empire.

Senorita Clark talks to her sixth hour Spanish class about the culture and customs of Spain, old and new.

In language lab, students learn by hearing native speakers on tape. Mrs. Kaiper checks a student's pronunciation.

Students find lab equipment and selected programs helpful in language study. French students listen to a conversation.

three spend their summer abroad

Language, the key to communication! The foreign language program includes Latin, French, German, and Spanish. The language department attempts to provide the student with a working knowledge of a language and to furnish an understanding of a foreign people and their culture.

Native customs of the country being studied are taught through slides, films, maps, flash cards, and tape recordings. The language lab aids German, French, and Spanish pupils in their comprehension and pronunciation.

Two Spanish students traveled to Mexico this past summer. They were Linda Loomis and Carol Adney. Ralph Conti attended the Latin Conference at Indiana University, while John Ling spent his summer in Germany, as part of the Experiment in International Living Program.

contemporary math emphasized

Everyone uses some form of mathematics in his daily life. There are many fields of work that require mathematics as a prerequisite. Mathematics is necessary for the complete pursuit of activities in the home, on the job, and at play.

The world is changing and so is mathematics. The traditional mathematics places emphasis on the mechanics of problems, whereas the contemporary mathematics shows the relationships and properties of problems. This year, 1063 pupils are taking mathematics.

The courses in the math department include plane geometry, algebra, analysis, senior math, and arithmetic review.

to be key in world survival among nations

Social Studies Department provides an opportunity for the student to gain knowledge and understanding of the United States and other nations. The goals of this department are to furnish the student with an appreciation of his heritage, an understanding of the development of history, and a foundation for the production of the future.

Required courses are U.S. history, government, and American problems or pacific relations. Elective Social Studies units include economics, geography, modern history, world affairs, world history, cadet teaching, and sociology.

Films, filmstrips, maps, charts, and recordings furnish visual and audio aids to the students. Such techniques as discussions, debates, and panels, permit students to voice their opinions. Speakers often supplement the curriculum with interesting discussions.

Mr. Charles Hilton points an accusing finger at a guilty offender who has made an historical blunder.

World history deals with the influence of past world events upon the development of world civilizations. Here, a class acts out Pope Gregory's excommunication of Henry IV.

World affairs classes study U.S. involvement in the Far East. Greg Dils, Mark Coleman, and Mike Smith portray the shaky Korean truce being broken by a boundary dispute.

Students prepare for many fields of business;

Fran Slagle uses an adding machine to prepare daily practice sets.

Business Law is a beneficial course that concerns the legal aspects of business transactions. Mr. Terry Weir discusses a law principle with members of his business law class.

Miss Meacham gives a travel lecture to notehand students for practice.

Cheryl McClure, Joyce Miller, Steve Hughes practice cash register skills in DE.

Mr. Grove

Stenography, Bookkeeping, General Business offered

Mary Lynn Young finds practice essential for learining office skills.

Many young men and women walk from RHS doors to challenge the outside world with a well-formed business education.

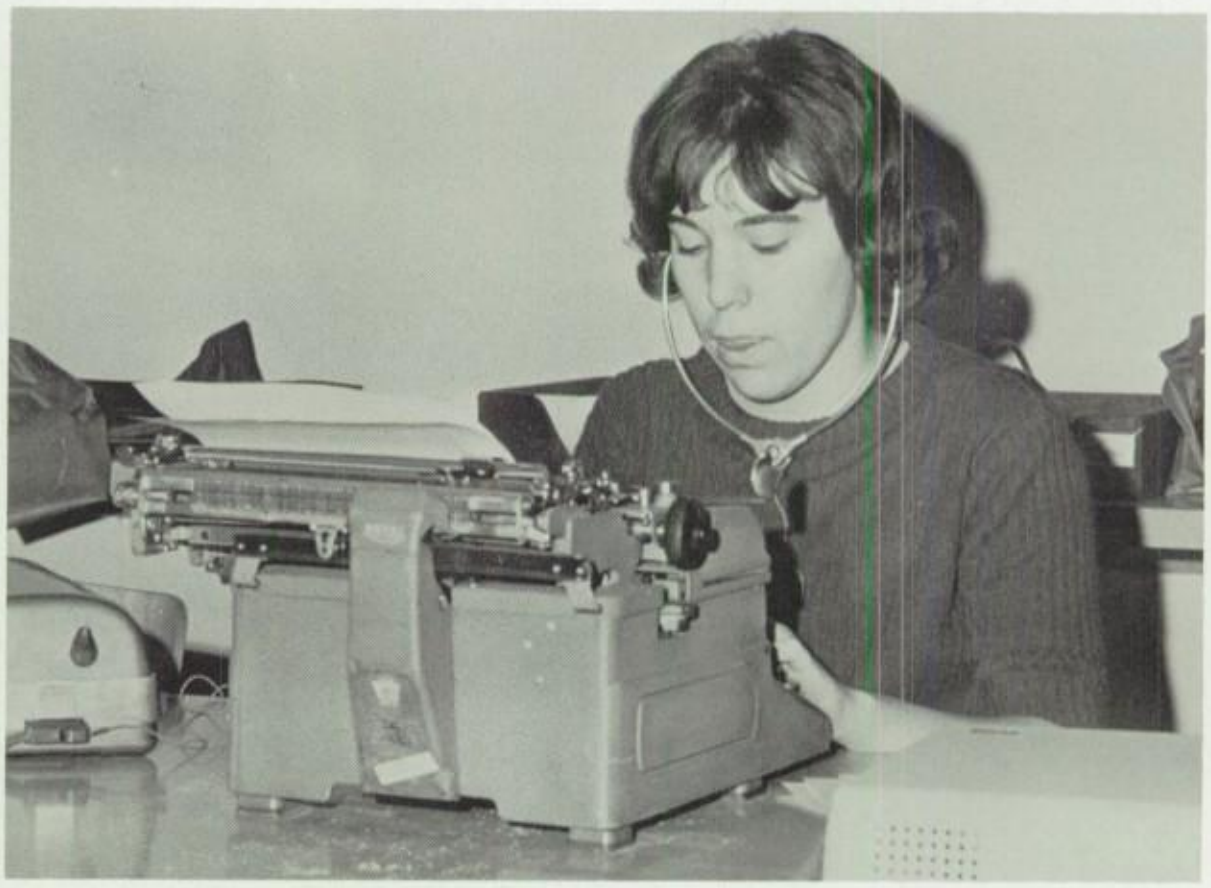
Stenographic curriculum attempts to train pupils to become secretaries for modern business. Special courses such as typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, business English, business math, and office practice provide students with a working knowledge of secretarial work.

Bookkeeping curriculum guides pupils toward a career in accounting. General business, bookkeeping, and business law are necessary courses in this field of study.

Other subjects under the heading of business education are typing and notehand. These are often electives of academic pupils.

Distributive Education curriculum develops future leaders for marketing and distribution from interested high school students. The first year course of study deals with the fundamentals of marketing and principles of selling. In the senior year, students take the related course and on-the-job training. From on-the-job training, students learn the background and general skills, besides gaining actual experience in selling.

Notehand offers an efficient way to take notes. Marsha Schroeder reads class notes.



Shelia Goble finds dictaphone typing an essential part of office practice.

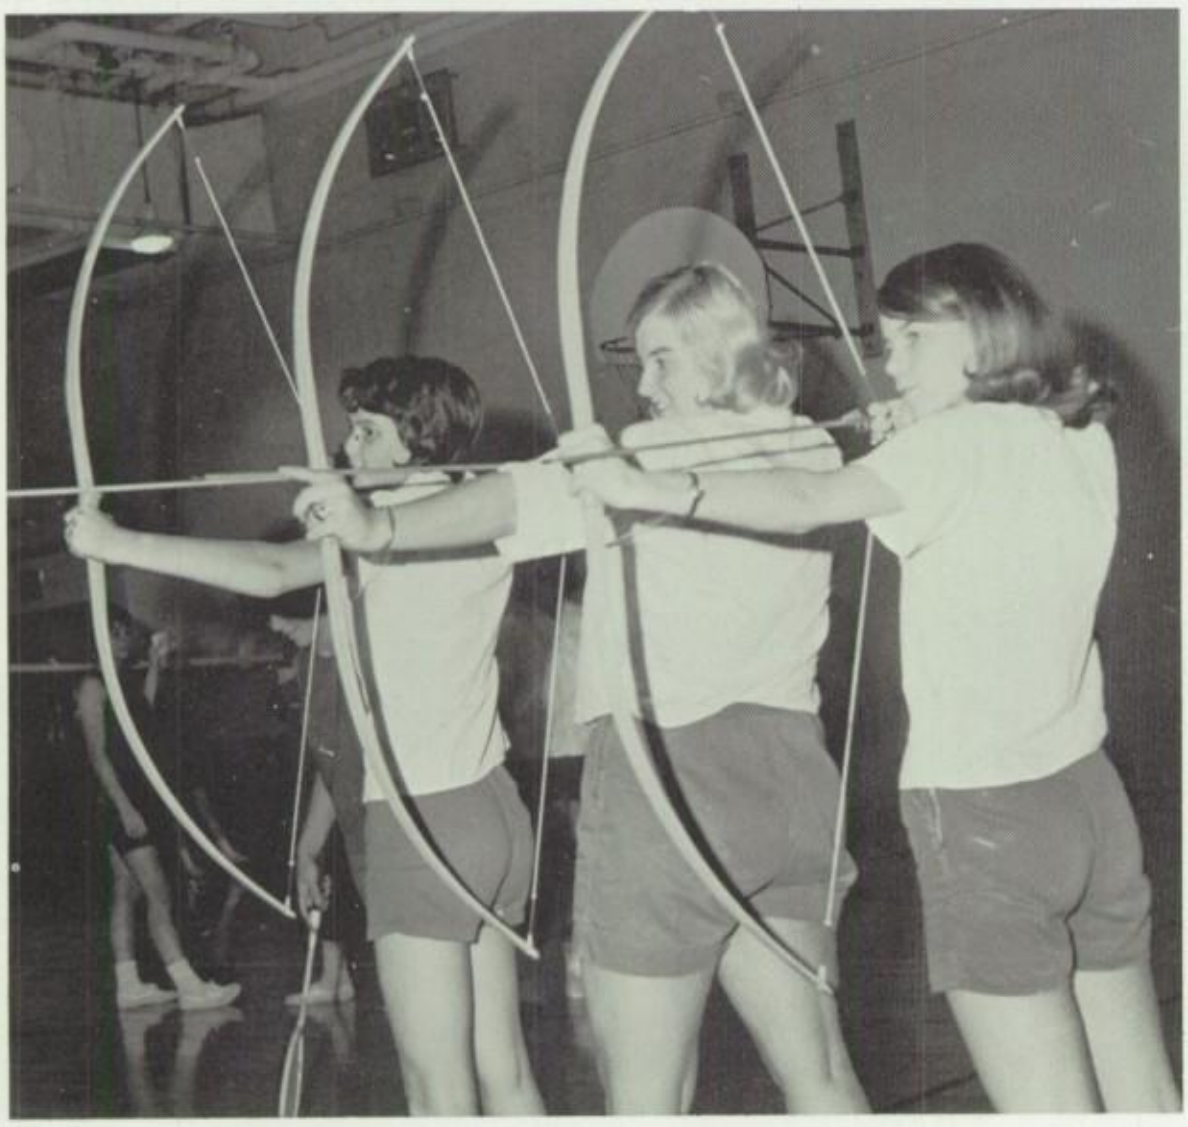
Mrs. Rodich's P. E. class practices the skills and techniques of archery. Taking aim at the target are Beverly Clark, Diane Johnson, Gail Willman.



A required two-semester course for all students is physical education. Students strive to become physically fit and to learn recreational skills for later life.

A new addition to the physical education department is the girls' elective physical education class. This year 26 members participated in archery, bowling, and an assortment of other activities.

Through health courses, students gain vital information concerning first aid, body structure, and nutrition. They also became acquainted with the harm caused by alcohol, tobacco, and narcotics.

homemakers learn to make house a home

Home Economics classes provide the individual with a knowledge of family living, living in the community, and family living in other areas of the world.

Students enrolled in Home Economics courses study such things as clothing, foods, home nursing, and family relationships. Clothing courses emphasize planning and constructing a wardrobe. Foods classes study the buying, planning, and preparation of meals. Students study interior decoration and management of a household in Home Management classes. Boys are also provided with the opportunity to gain cooking and grooming skills through the boys home economics course.

The home nursing and child care classes are designed to develop skills in simple nursing procedures and to gain a better understanding of the needs of children. It includes learning to recognize symptoms of illness, to control communicable diseases, and to develop an interest in nursing as a career.

students benefit from practice with machines

Working in the machine shop, student machinist David Wyatt prepares a clampscrew for a set of parallel clamps on the lathe. He is turning or reducing the diameter.

Industrial Arts is that part of the curriculum which affords the student an opportunity to explore many areas of industrial endeavor. Industrial Arts gives insight to the various methods and materials of modern day industry.

Offered are architectural drawing, auto mechanics, electricity, electronics, industrial math, machine shop, mechanical drawing, metal and welding construction, printing and graphic arts, and wood and building.

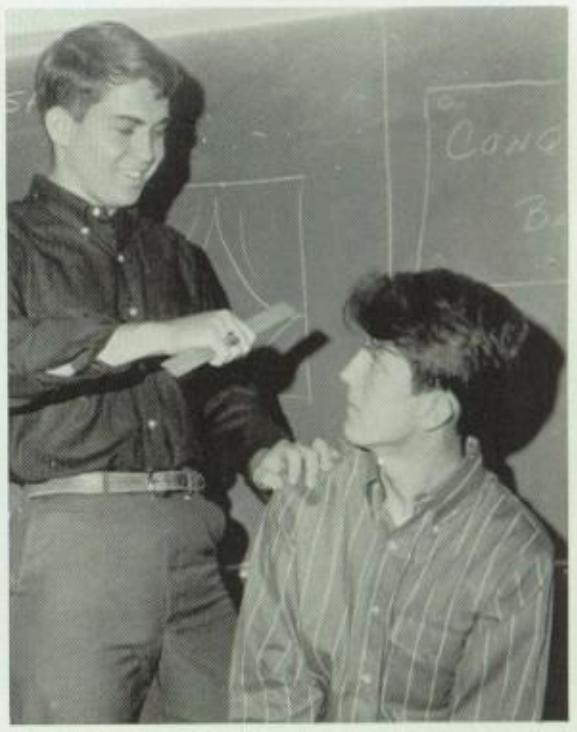
Future Farmers are educated and trained through the Vocational Agriculture course of RHS.

Besides furthering the knowledge and understanding of farming, this course attempts to explain the management of a farm.

Mechanical drawing student Mike Forrest works on a drafting plate while using a triangle and a parallel rule.

Students Ron Saylor and Tom Hammons experiment with parallel circuits in Mr. Rehmel's fifth hour electricity class.

English courses stress grammar, composition;

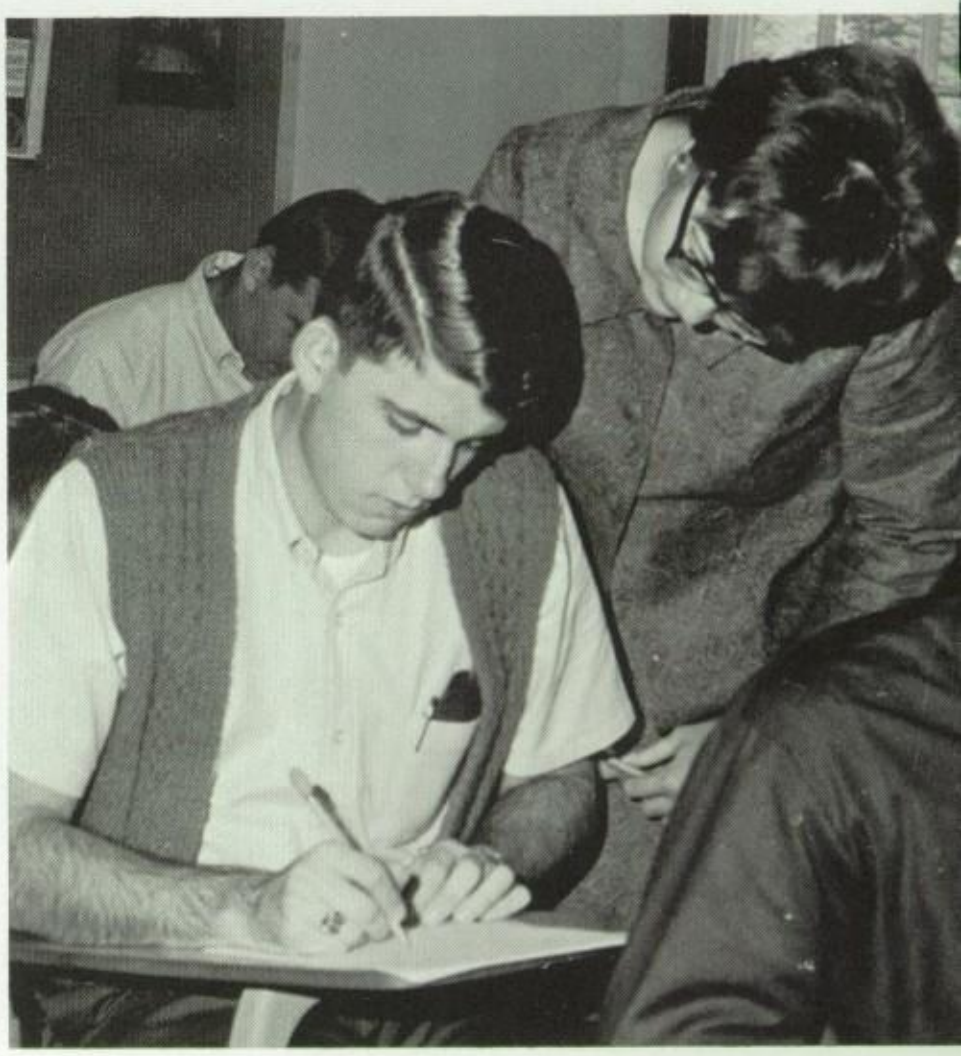


Rusty Owens and Mark Bowmer act out a play "Tooth or Shave" in an English 6 class.

Rick Jones, Kathy Ross, Shelia Goble, Wanita Goodwin, and Gwen Schroeder pose following a play production of an English skit "TV Cowboy vs. Real Cowboy."

Mrs. Doris Caldwell takes time from a busy schedule to orient student Jeannie Evans to the high school's English program.

Miss Sally Zart, student teacher, helps Tom Chestnut with an English composition in Mrs. Wyatt's English 5a class.



reading lab increases reading rate, comprehension

English Department stresses grammar and composition in both the academic and general curricula.

Academic curriculum, which requires five semesters of English instruction, provides students with a good pre-college background.

General curriculum offers five semesters including remedial English and Applied English.

Business English and Advanced Placement English are also offered by the English Department.

Reading lab is used by 2a, 5a, and 5g students. This lab, complete with films, texts, and a large variety of well-selected books, helps the student increase his reading rate along with comprehension.

The weekly spelling test is a fundamental portion of all English classes. Mrs. Bonnie Rupe's first hour English class engages in this weekly activity. Mrs. Rupe took Mrs. Kantra's position after Christmas.

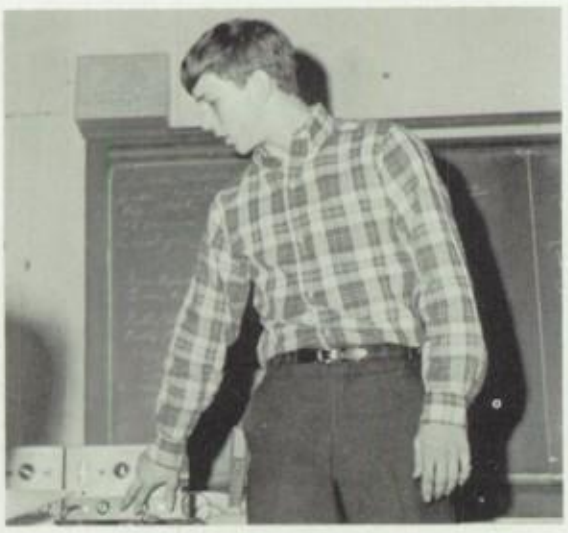
Steve Helmich and Connie Hunt count Registers during journalism class for distribution to students during fifth period classes.

Drama, Speech, Journalism promote self-confidence

Jerry Stanton gives a demonstration speech about an electronical device.



Drama, speech, and journalism are three courses which promote self-confidence in oratorical speaking, dramatic acting, and journalistic writing.

The new drama course gives the student an understanding, appreciation, and criticism of drama as an art. The literature and the history of drama, as well as actual plays are studied. The drama course seeks to provide the student with confidence and poise for everyday living.

Speech is an elective course for students in the English curriculum. Speech is actually oral English in the forms of oratory debate, extemporaneous speaking, and interprative reading.

Reporters of tomorrow are prepared through the journalism courses. The first semester of journalism deals with the basic ideas of news and feature writing. It also acquaints the student with the photography, advertising, and printing aspects of a modern newspaper. Second and third semester journalism pupils put newly-acquired skills to use by actually working on the high school's weekly newspaper.

Monica Young, Diane Reis, Donna Hart, and Pam Henry, drama class students, study a book of modern plays.

classes practice for concerts

Richmond High School Music department includes concert band, varsity band, orchestra, RHS Singers, concert choir, and cadet choir. Mr. John Parshall and Mr. Paul Korns instruct the band students, Mr. David Davenport directs the aspiring young vocalists, and Mr. Ralph Burkhardt conducts orchestra.

During class the groups rehearse and prepare for the various concerts that are given during the year. Both classical and modern music are ventured into by the different departments.

It is the duty of the Music Department to provide various opportunities for those students who wish musical activities, whether students continue with music as a profession or participate merely for enjoyment.

Instrumental and vocal music form the two parts of the music department. The flute section, right, rehearse their part, while Andy Johnson, left, studies a song in RHS Singers.

Custodians clean building; cafeteria staff fixes meals

They clean up after the students and prepare the noon meals. Can you guess who they are? Cafeteria staff and custodians fulfill these jobs.

Cafeteria staff has thirty-one members who serve 1800 meals every day. Mrs. Glenn Muckridge manages the staff and plans the meals. The staff must keep the cafeteria clean, prepare and serve meals, besides washing dishes.

Fourteen custodians keep the building in neat order. Each custodian has a certain area of the building which is assigned to be kept in neat appearance. Mr. Von Clark is in charge of the custodians.

Both staffs have done a good job this year and are appreciated by the students at Richmond High School.

Red Devils on Parade

Over 2300 walk halls of RHS

Over 2300 students, teachers, and administrators walked the halls of Richmond High School, five days a week, 183 days during the school year. These individuals represented a special breed, whose determined spirit to make RHS the best school in the state was prominent in all areas of academic endeavor, athletic participation, student leadership, and personal pride.

A "Devil" had plenty of things to do during the year—there were sports events to cheer at, dances to attend, club activities to execute, community activities to participate in, and homework to do. For seniors, this final year held a tinge of regret at doing things for the last time and a feeling of hopeful expectation at the prospect of further schooling or entrance into the business world. Juniors, on the other hand, anxiously awaited the beginning of their senior year when all the senior privileges and activities would be theirs to experience. Those entering sophomores who first set foot on high school premises in September turned into experienced hands in all areas of school activity.

Continuance of Richmond High School was dependent upon the spirit and the determination of both students and faculty members. Each individual experienced some personal successes and defeats during the school year, but the continual display of pride and respect on the part of the student body caused the community and other schools to remark, "They've got spirit!"

Fire drills provide students with a tension breaker from classwork as well as a chance to practice for emergencies.

Senior Class Council plans graduation activities

Graduation activities, the high point in any student's life, are planned by the forty members of the Senior Class Council and its officers Steve Ringenberg, president; Jay Balestrieri, vice-president; Sara Lemon, secretary, and Lee Ferrell, treasurer.

Council is in charge of fitting, ordering, and choosing the colors for the graduation caps and gowns. Besides planning the graduation activities, the Senior Class Council spends much time in preparation for Senior Week and the class picnic.

Council is planning to erect a lighted sign in front of the high school with the school name inscribed. A school plaque will be inlayed in the center of Honors Hall.

Senior Council helped the all-school play with a donation of $100 this year.

Council also held a shirt sale this year. They sold sleeping shirts and jerseys in an effort to boost school spirit.

Junior Class council assumed responsibility for the co-ordination of the most important and eagerly awaited dance of the year. This dance is, of course, the Junior-Senior Prom. The theme was "In the Still of the Night." It has always been a tradition for the Junior Class to sponsor the prom.

Among other activities, the Junior Class Council participated in the Homecoming Parade. Its entry was awarded first place.

In charge of ushering at commencement were the officers of the Junior Class—Dan Snyder, president; Max Henry, vice-president; Joan Ellis, secretary; Lynn Dillon, treasurer.

Sophomores added much to RHS this year. Their enthusiasm and attitude stimulated upperclassmen. Many clubs and activities were invaded by these vigorous sophomores.

This larger than average group produced three fine B-team cheerleaders—Sylvia Ferrell, Vicki Kaler, and Mary Ellen Doddridge and many promising athletes.

After completing their first year of high school the sophomores eagerly await their advancement into junior classes and the oncome of succeeding sophomores.

It took much help to produce this Pierian

Yearbooks are made through a combination of efforts on the part of many individuals. The staff would like to express its gratitude to the following people for their help in making the Pierian a successful student project:

Mr. Harold Hanes, Mr. Donald Mays, and Mr. Ivan Wagner for their patience and help in scheduling Pierian activities and for "stretching the rules" just a bit when we needed to meet deadlines; Mr. Virgil Little, athletic director, for the early distribution of sports schedules; Mrs. Gloria Maurer, Mrs. Virginia Retz, Mrs. Lois Foster, Mrs. Edith Snyder, and Mrs. Nazoma Statzer for listening to our many problems; the 105 classroom teachers for their patience in filling out information forms and in allowing us to take pictures both "in" and "out" of class; to all homeroom agents and teachers who made the Pierian sale a financial success; to Miss Janet Turpin and to Mr. Richard Coons, deans, for their help in student identification; to the custodians who cleaned up our messes; to the clubs who co-operated in picture scheduling and writing club copy; and to Mr. Terry Weir, school treasurer, for paying our bills.

Since pictures "make" a yearbook, we should like to express our thanks to the following people who contributed pictures for yearbook use:

Palladium-Item for Junior Miss pictures, football action pictures, Snowball pictures, the computer picture, and Pierian publicity; the Graphic for the aeronautical flying picture; to the Register for several picture contributions and for Pierian publicity; to Robbie Shaver, Buddy Race, and Carol Elstro for serving as "off-staff" photographers; to Indiana School Pictures for taking and supplying us with underclass and faculty pictures; to Mr. Bill Wallace for taking club group pictures and senior pictures; to Mr. Ralph Pyle for taking club group pictures, senior pictures, Junior-Senior Prom pictures, and aerial shots; and to the coaches for several action pictures of their sports.

When deadlines got tight, we often relied on "off-staff" people to help get the job done. Gratitude should be extended to the following people:

Paragon Press for their patience in printing our yearbooks; Mr. Frank Woschitz, Paragon representative, for supplying material and much-needed advice; to the editor's parents for their help in arranging the index; to Mrs. Aileen Githen's spring semester advanced typing classes for typing index copy; to Jenny and Sally Wiechman for their help in index classification; and especially to Mr. Jerry Woodring for his help in layout preparation, picure suggestions, in preparing materials for deadlines and most of all for his patience with the staff.

A gratitude page would not be complete without giving special thanks to the 2200 students at RHS for making this book possible.

"You mean I sold that many Pierians?" asks Pierian agent Bill Fellows, as he expresses amazement at selling 50 Pierians. He sold more than any other agent.

Pierian agents selling over 100% were (front row) Jeff Ross, Steve Loar, Mike Dyer, Fred Gennett, (back row) Gloria Oda, Susan Allshouse, Linda Thomas, Barb White, Ellen Isley.

Year ends and Devils are still

This year RHS had two foreign students from Japan. Yoko Mikata (above), a senior, and Takao Murakami (below), a junior, were in constant demand as speakers to civic and school clubs. Yoko's first impression of RHS was its size, while Takao found students and teachers friendly. Yoko plans to attend an American college, while Takao hopes for another year at RHS.

National Merit finalists look over their achievement certificates. They are (at front) Sara Lemon, Monica Young, Judy Lasky; (at back) Mike Coveney and Philip Payne.

on parade

The 1966-67 trek along the parade route is over and next September a new parade will begin. Through high moments and low, our parade reflected a burning desire to be our best at all times.

The year was highlighted by Homecoming, cross country sectional title, and Student Council convention in the fall; in the winter by Snowball, report cards by mail, "Mother is a Freshman," sectional basketball and wrestling titles; and in the spring by prom, "Oklahoma," and graduation.

Red Devil achievements were a composite of combined efforts on the part of students, faculty and administrators —but more than that the parade was trod by each individual who strived to better himself. At the end of the parade route, it was unquenchable pride that made RHS'ers proud to be Red Devils on Parade.

Pierian reflects fond memories

Three years can seem like a long time to a young person. High school days are filled with activities, club meetings, and classes to attend and friends to make—there seems to be no end in sight—and yet, suddenly time catches up and the glorious days of youth are over.

Since 1909, the Pierian has recorded a history of the school year gone by. Like a kaleidoscope, this Pierian has sought to bring back cherished memories of the year 1966-67 at the turn of a page.

When one day the whim comes to recall the nostalgia of high school days and the dust is blown off the pages, the contents will continue to recreate the atmosphere that will be remembered as the year Red Devils went on parade.
